  - mouth-to-mouth
  - mouth-to-nose
- techniques for:
  - assisting responsive divers to exit the water, with and without assistance from team members
  - exiting unresponsive divers from the water, with and without assistance from team members
- for oxygen administration:
  - situations that require the use of oxygen and benefits to divers
  - features, functions and operation of oxygen delivery systems, pocket masks

- appropriate flow rates
- hazards associated with the administration of oxygen and methods used to manage these
- team members that are authorised to administer oxygen and any legal requirements applicable in the local state or territory
- options that are available post rescue, when these might be used and how to contact authorities to assist:
  - assisted treatment via remote communications
  - emergency evacuation and medical treatment
  - hyperbaric chamber
- underwater search patterns used to locate lost divers, advantages and disadvantages of each:
  - linear
  - circular
  - U pattern
  - jack stay
  - expanding square
- format, inclusions and use of incident reports.

Assessment Conditions

Skills must be demonstrated in an open water site during daylight hours. Dives can be completed from either a boat or from the shore.

Assessments, for rescues, can only be completed through simulated activities. Simulations must incorporate time critical requirements.

During assessment:

- direct vertical access to the surface must be possible; aquatic plants are not considered an overhead obstruction
- surfacing an unresponsive diver can only be completed at a maximum depth of 9 metres
- the following resources must be available to replicate industry conditions of operation:
  - first aid equipment
  - communication equipment for emergency response
  - diver flags of a type and size that meet local maritime regulator requirements.

Assessment must ensure use of:

- people who act as team members, participants and rescuees with whom the individual interacts during simulated rescues
- fins

- masks
- snorkels
- cylinders and valves
- buoyancy control devices with low pressure inflators
- regulators with submersible pressure gauges
- alternative air source
- weight ballast systems
- exposure suits suitable for conditions
- timing devices
- depth gauges
- underwater compasses
- rescue equipment:
  - reach equipment
  - throw bags, lifebuoys or slings
  - throw ropes
- oxygen equipment:
  - oxygen delivery systems
  - pocket masks or other barrier devices
- template incident reports
- organisational policies and procedures for emergency response.

Assessors must satisfy the Standards for Registered Training Organisations requirements for assessors, and:

- be an individual who is currently certified and sanctioned by an industry authorised organisation to teach and assess diver rescues.

SISOSCB007 Inspect and fill SCUBA cylinders

Modification History

Not applicable.

Application

This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required visually inspect and fill SCUBA cylinders.

SCUBA cylinders are required to undergo cyclic inspection and can only be certified by a certified gas cylinder test station. This unit does not cover those specialist skills.

It applies to dive leaders, usually known as divemasters, or instructors and to assistant instructors and support staff.

This unit applies to any type of organisation that delivers SCUBA diving activities and dive instruction including commercial, not-for-profit and government organisations.

No occupational licensing, certification or specific legislative requirements apply to this unit at the time of publication.

Assessment Requirements for SISOSCB007 Inspect and fill SCUBA cylinders

Modification History

Not applicable.

Performance Evidence

Evidence of the ability to complete tasks outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit in the context of the job role, and:

- visually inspect, verify condition and certification, and fill four SCUBA cylinders
- complete all required documentation for the four inspections and fills
- utilise options provided in Assessment Conditions to identify two non-compliant or faulty cylinders and complete required documentation
- test the purity of organisation's air supply on two occasions and complete required documentation
- during all activities, consistently comply with organisational safety procedures.

Knowledge Evidence

Demonstrated knowledge required to complete the tasks outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit:

- organisational safety procedures for inspecting and filling SCUBA cylinders
- provisions and requirements of the following Australian or international Standards that relate to inspecting and filling SCUBA cylinders:
  - Gas Cylinders
  - Filling of Portable Gas Cylinders
- issues that are checked prior to filling SCUBA cylinders:
  - currency of testing certification
  - condition of cylinder via visual inspection including exterior damage, corrosion and rust; deterioration of exterior paint
- features, functions and operation of equipment used to fill SCUBA cylinders:
  - air compressors and gauges
  - air storage banks
- manufacturers' specifications for use of equipment
- required pressures for SCUBA cylinders of different types and capacities
- procedures for testing purity of organisation's air supply
- inclusions of organisational inspection documents.

Assessment Conditions

Skills must be demonstrated in a certified gas cylinder test station.

Assessment must ensure use of:

- SCUBA cylinders in different conditions, including those in poor condition
- real workplace situations, or simulated activities, or case study scenarios that test aspects of this unit that relate to non-compliant or faulty cylinders
- air compressors and gauges
- air storage banks
- the current Australian or international Standards for:
  - Gas Cylinders
  - Filling of Portable Gas Cylinders
- cylinder tags
- template equipment fault reports
- organisational safety procedures for inspecting and filling SCUBA cylinders.

SISOSCB008 SCUBA dive using Enriched Air Nitrox

Modification History

Not applicable.

Application

This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to plan and complete recreational SCUBA dives using Enriched Air Nitrox (EANx). It also requires the ability to assemble and disassemble equipment and to complete basic maintenance at the water's edge.

EANx diving can be completed using dives tables but contemporary diving is usually completed using computerised equipment, and this is a requirement for this unit.

It applies to dive leaders, usually known as divemasters, or instructors and to assistant instructors who use these skills when leading participants in SCUBA diving activities. Leadership skills are provided in complementary units.

This unit applies to any type of organisation that delivers SCUBA diving activities and dive instruction including commercial, not-for-profit and government organisations.

In order to procure gas mixes, enriched air equipment, and other services to engage in recreational Enriched Air Nitrox diving without supervision, divers must hold certification (C-Card) issued by an industry authorised organisation. That industry certification may or may not be issued concurrently with an Australian Qualification Framework (AQF) qualification or Statement of Attainment identifying achievement of competency in this unit. C-Card certification would be required to gain employment as a divemaster or instructor.

Those delivering training and assessment to support this unit should consult the relevant industry bodies to determine any partnership arrangements for courses, trainers and assessors that can lead to joint AQF and industry regulated C-Card certification.

Pre-requisite Unit

SISOSCB001 SCUBA dive in open water to a maximum depth of 18 metres

Competency Field

SCUBA Diving

Unit Sector

Outdoor Recreation

Elements and Performance Criteria

ELEMENTS

Elements describe the essential outcomes

1. Plan EANx dives.
2. Analyse blend, select and assemble equipment.
3. Dive using EANx.
4. Disassemble and maintain equipment.

PERFORMANCE CRITERIA

Performance criteria describe the performance needed to demonstrate achievement of the element.

- 1.1. Determine site, depth and duration of dives.
- 1.2. Identify hazards and assess risks associated with use of EANx equipment, blend, site, depth and duration of dives.
- 1.3. Prepare EANx dive plans according to industry technical and safety criteria.
- 1.4. Use dive computer or dive tables, as required, to plan requirements.
- 1.5. Select and order EANx blend to meet dive requirements.
- 2.1. Analyse supplied EANx blend using equipment according to manufacturers' calibration and analysis recommendations.
- 2.2. Complete all required pre-dive analysis logs.
- 2.3. Select and assemble dive equipment suitable for use with EANx gas blend.
- 2.4. Utilise EANx compatible dive computers to finalise details of dive, according to industry technical and safety criteria.
- 3.1. Complete EANx dive according to dive plan and EANx industry technical and safety criteria.
- 3.2. Monitor depth and time throughout dive, according to dive plan using dive computer data.
- 3.3. Take remedial action to avoid hazards.
- 4.1. Maintain positive pressure in cylinder to avoid entry of atmospheric air.
- 4.2. Disassemble regulators and gauges according to industry technical and safety criteria.
- 4.3. Complete basic post dive maintenance of equipment compatible with elevated oxygen mix according to industry technical and safety criteria.

Foundation Skills

Assessment Requirements for SISOSCB008 SCUBA dive using Enriched Air Nitrox

Modification History

Not applicable.

Performance Evidence

Evidence of the ability to complete tasks outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit in the context of the job role, and:

- plan and complete two EANx SCUBA dives, each for different parameters
- prior to each dive:
  - select a supplier and order a blend of EANx suitable for dive requirements
  - analyse and confirm blend requirements and complete required log documents
  - safely and accurately assemble all equipment in line with the particular requirements of EANx use
- during each dive, use effective techniques to control:
  - entry and exit
  - buoyancy
  - underwater swimming
  - ascent and descent
  - buddy management
- after each dive, disassemble equipment and complete basic maintenance tasks, at water's edge, in line with elevated oxygen mix effects on equipment.

Knowledge Evidence

Demonstrated knowledge required to complete the tasks outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit:

- compositions and recreational uses of:
  - standard air
  - Enriched Air Nitrox (EANx) within the range of 22% to 40% oxygen
  - EANx above 40% oxygen at a fundamental level of understanding
- different terminology and abbreviations used to describe enriched air and composition, e.g. Enriched Air Nitrox, EANx22, Enriched Air 22, Enriched Air Nitrox 22, Nitrox 22
- primary benefits of using EANx, commonly used blends and benefits of different blends
- how use of EANx of different composition affects, or has no particular effect on:
  - no stop limits (no decompression limits)
  - decompression illness (DCI)
  - narcosis

- the primary medical hazard of central nervous system oxygen toxicity (CNS toxicity) associated with use of EANx when diving:
  - causes
  - prevention
  - signs and symptoms
  - first aid treatments
- for Enriched Air Nitrox (EANx) cylinders:
  - why cylinders are dedicated for use with EANx, and hazards associated with mixing use of dedicated and standard compressed air cylinders
  - identifying features and their purpose including:
    - colours, colour bands, wording
    - visual inspection stickers (decals)
    - oxygen service standard stickers (decals)
    - contents stickers or tags
    - any unique markings required by local regulations
- for obtaining EANx and equipment:
  - quality standards that apply to provision of EANx
  - quality standards that apply to servicing cylinders
  - how to choose a quality provider for renting, filling, and servicing cylinders and other equipment to avoid risks to divers
- special usage, maintenance, service considerations and manufacturer's recommendations that can apply to the use of EANx with other equipment:
  - regulators
  - buoyancy control devices (BCD)
  - submersible pressure gauges (SPG)
- primary equipment related hazards associated with use of EANx and precautions taken to avoid risks:
  - fire and combustion when filling and analysing content of mixed gases
  - deterioration of equipment when exposed to high levels of oxygen
- processes to personally analyse and log the EANx blend in filled cylinders before use:
  - how to calibrate an oxygen analyser between uses using manufacturer's recommendations
  - how to use an oxygen analyser to determine the oxygen content using manufacturers' recommendations
  - how to complete logs
- how to use dive computers for use with EANx to:
  - determine no-decompression limits for single and repetitive dives
  - properly plan and execute a dive
  - determine PO<sub>2</sub> and how to establish equivalent air depth mix
  - determine maximum operating depth (MOD)
- the advantages of dive computers over dive tables when planning and completing dives.

Assessment Conditions

Skills must be demonstrated in an open water site suitable for EANx diving. Dives can be completed from either boats or from the shore.

During assessment:

- direct vertical access to the surface must be possible; aquatic plants are not considered an overhead obstruction
- the following resources must be available to replicate industry conditions of operation:
  - first aid equipment
  - oxygen equipment
  - communication equipment for emergency response
  - diver flags of a type and size that meet local maritime regulator requirements.

Assessment must ensure use of:

- a diving buddy with whom the candidate can dive
- fins
- masks
- snorkels
- clearly marked and designated Enriched Air Nitrox cylinders and valves, including stickers and tags which comply with local regulations
- buoyancy control devices with low-pressure inflators
- regulators suitable for use with enriched air
- submersible pressure gauges
- alternate air source
- weight ballast systems
- exposure suits suitable for conditions
- timing devices
- depth gauges
- oxygen analysers
- dive computers compatible for use with EANx defined as a dive computers that calculate adjusted no stop (no decompression limits) and oxygen exposure for differing blends of enriched air
- Enriched Air fill log pages.

Assessors must satisfy the Standards for Registered Training Organisations requirements for assessors, and:

- be an individual who is currently certified and sanctioned by an industry authorised organisation to teach and assess enriched air nitrox SCUBA diving and to authorise the issuance of enriched air certification (C-Card).

SISOSCB009 SCUBA dive to depths between 18 and 40 metres

Modification History

Not applicable.

Application

This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to plan and complete deep recreational SCUBA dives to a maximum depth of 40 metres using equipment, diving and risk management techniques specific to deep diving.

It applies to dive leaders, usually known as divemasters, or instructors and to assistant instructors who use these skills when leading participants during SCUBA diving activities. Leadership skills are provided in complementary units.

This unit applies to any type of organisation that delivers SCUBA diving activities and dive instruction including commercial, not-for-profit and government organisations.

In order to procure air, equipment, and other services to engage in recreational open water diving without supervision, divers must hold certification (C-Card) issued by an industry authorised organisation. That industry certification may or may not be issued concurrently with an Australian Qualification Framework (AQF) qualification or Statement of Attainment identifying achievement of competency in this unit. C-Card certification would be required to gain employment as a divemaster or instructor.

Assessment Requirements for SISOSCB009 SCUBA dive to depths between 18 and 40 metres

Modification History

Not applicable.

Performance Evidence

Evidence of the ability to complete tasks outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit in the context of the job role, and:

- plan and complete four open water dives each for different parameters over 18 metres and up to 40 metres depth
- during each dive, use effective deep diving techniques to control:
  - ascent and descent
  - buoyancy
  - underwater swimming
  - breathing for air conservation
  - buddy contact, cooperation and communication
- across the four dives execute:
  - one descent and ascent using a reference line as a tactile guide
  - one free descent and ascent using a reference point as a visual only guide.

Knowledge Evidence

Demonstrated knowledge required to complete the tasks outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit:

- definition of recreational deep dives and recommended diving limits within maximum definitions
- specific objectives that typically relate to deep dives and reasons for setting limited objectives in line with reduced time available underwater
- environmental hazards associated with diving beyond 18 meters and techniques used to safely negotiate these:
  - cold water
  - low light levels and visibility
- specific medical problems related to diving at depths beyond 18 metres, the causes, prevention, symptoms, first aid and treatment:
  - nitrogen narcosis
  - decompression sickness
  - increased levels of stress and panic due to environmental conditions
- how to use dive computers for deep diving to:

- determine no-decompression limits for single and repetitive dives
- properly plan and execute a dive
- manage ascents
- features, function and operation of dive computers, and advantages of dive computers over dive tables when planning and completing deep dives
- identifying features, functions and operation of equipment used for deep diving:
  - purpose made regulators
  - purpose made submersible pressure gauges
  - alternative air sources
  - heavy grade exposure suits, booties and gloves
  - lines from support stations fitted with back up air supply
  - extra weight ballast systems
  - dive lights
- descent and ascent techniques:
  - holding a reference line as a tactile guide
  - slowing and stopping using a reference line while hands are occupied
  - using a reference point as a visual only guide for free descents and ascents – walls and sloping bottoms
  - head up descents and why these are important
- special considerations and techniques whilst deep diving for:
  - maintaining buddy contact
  - adjusting and maintaining buoyancy
  - breathing
- optimum ascent rates and times for safety stops during ascent and how to calculate these for different depths.

Assessment Conditions

Skills must be demonstrated in an open water site during daylight hours. Dives can be completed from either boats or from the shore.

During assessment:

- direct vertical access to the surface must be possible; aquatic plants are not considered an overhead obstruction
- no more than three dives can be completed in any one day
- dives must include at least 15 minutes at a depth between 18 and 40 metres
- the following resources must be available to replicate industry conditions of operation:
  - first aid equipment
  - oxygen equipment
  - communication equipment for emergency response
  - diver flags of a type and size that meet local maritime regulator requirements

- flag and surface float with weighted line for safety stops and back up air supply attached (support station).

Assessment must ensure use of:

- a diving buddy with whom the candidate can dive
- fins
- masks
- snorkels
- cylinders and valves
- buoyancy control devices with low pressure inflators
- regulators with submersible pressure gauges
- alternative air source
- weight ballast systems
- exposure suits suitable for conditions
- timing devices
- depth gauges
- dive computers
- lines for descents and ascents.

Assessors must satisfy the Standards for Registered Training Organisations requirements for assessors, and:

- be an individual who is currently certified and sanctioned by an industry authorised organisation to teach and assess deep diving skills.

SISOSCB010 Lead SCUBA diving activities

Modification History

Not applicable.

Application

This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to lead and supervise or instruct dependent participants during SCUBA diving activities according to predetermined activity plans which might be self-developed or developed by others. It covers the skills required to adjust activities according to prevailing conditions and participant capabilities.

It requires the ability to demonstrate and instruct SCUBA techniques. To do this, leaders must be proficient in SCUBA diving skills which are covered by other units.

This unit applies to any type of organisation that delivers SCUBA diving activities and dive instruction including commercial, not-for-profit and government organisations.

It applies to dive leaders, usually known as divemasters, or instructors, who work independently using discretion and judgement to manage operational logistics and risk within predetermined guidelines.

Divemasters and instructors must hold C-Card certification. They must also be certified and sanctioned by an industry authorised organisation to lead and supervise diving activities or to instruct others in diving skills and issue C-Card Certification. Industry certification for divemasters and instructors may or may not be issued concurrently with an Australian Qualification Framework (AQF) qualification or Statement of Attainment identifying achievement of competency in this unit.

Those delivering training and assessment to support this unit should consult the relevant industry bodies to determine any delivery requirements and partnership arrangements for courses, trainers and assessors that can lead to joint AQF and industry regulated divemaster and dive instructor certification.

Elements and Performance Criteria

ELEMENTS

Elements describe the essential outcomes

1. Prepare equipment and participants.
2. Brief participants and demonstrate SCUBA diving techniques
3. Lead and supervise

PERFORMANCE CRITERIA

Performance criteria describe the performance needed to demonstrate achievement of the element.

- 1.1. Assess characteristics, condition and capability of participants, as they present, and obtain informed consent.
- 1.2. Select and set up equipment and exposure suits to match participants and prevailing conditions; complete safety checks.
- 1.3. Check participants' own equipment and exposure suits, if provided, and confirm safe working condition.
- 1.4. Direct and assist participants to fit and adjust equipment and exposure suits; check comfort and safety of fit.
- 1.5. Complete pre-dive roll call.
- 2.1. Explain planned objectives; communicate instructions and information about activity in a manner appropriate to participants.
- 2.2. Encourage participants to ask questions and seek advice before and during session.
- 2.3. Inform participants of known and anticipated risks, safety procedures, safe behaviour, safe areas and boundaries.
- 2.4. Advise participants of roles and responsibilities of activity leaders, and communication protocols to use during activity.
- 2.5. Demonstrate and explain correct techniques appropriate for the activity.
- 2.6. Check and confirm participant ability to use and control equipment before activity commencement.
- 2.7. Check matching of equipment and activities to participants and amend as required.
- 3.1. Supervise activity according to designated role, adjusting

- SCUBA diving activities.
- 3.2. Implement recreational instruction techniques to impart skills and knowledge for the activity.
- 3.3. Provide clear and accurate instructions and or demonstrations throughout the session.
- 3.4. Monitor participant performance and provide directions, encouragement and corrective instruction to improve techniques.
- 3.5. Facilitate effective group communication and interaction to maintain group control, engagement and safety.
- 3.6. Implement required modifications to activity, location or route to ensure participant engagement and comfort, and completion within timelines.
4. Manage safety during SCUBA diving activities.
- 4.1. Monitor activity conditions and hazards, including signs of participant difficulty, to ensure safety and welfare.
- 4.2. Monitor participant behaviour and adherence to safety procedures, adjust level of supervision and assertively correct breaches, as required.
- 4.3. Respond immediately to adverse participant reactions and hazardous situations.
- 4.4. Complete ongoing risk assessments to minimise risk of injury to participants and others.
- 4.5. Amend activities if risk is unacceptable; cease activities when required.
- 4.6. Respond to emergency situations according to organisational safety, emergency response and first aid procedures.
5. Complete post activity responsibilities.
- 5.1. Complete post-dive roll call.
- 5.2. Debrief participants and encourage discussion on their technique and satisfaction with session.
- 5.3. Notify relevant personnel of activity completion.
- 5.4. Retrieve equipment, inspect for wear or breakage, tag faults and store in designated area.
- 5.5. Document any equipment faults and incidents including injuries and near misses.
- 5.6. Evaluate the activity through a team debrief and identify improvements for future activities.

Performance Evidence

Evidence of the ability to complete tasks outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit in the context of the job role, and:

- lead three SCUBA diving sessions for a group of participants according to predetermined activity plans
- across the three sessions, collectively use two different demonstration and instruction techniques
- during each session consistently manage participant adherence to safety procedures
- after each session, facilitate a debrief with participants and participate in a team member debrief
- utilise options provided in Assessment Conditions to:
  - determine a total of three required activity modifications to suit prevailing conditions and participant capabilities and responses
  - respond to a total of three different immediate safety risks that have arisen during activities
  - respond to a total of two emergency situations and complete two incident reports
  - complete two reports on equipment faults.

Knowledge Evidence

Demonstrated knowledge required to complete the tasks outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit:

- organisational safety, emergency response and first aid procedures for SCUBA diving activities
- a range of demonstration and instruction techniques applicable to recreational activities
- appropriateness of different demonstration and instruction techniques for a range of ages and capabilities
- the importance of verbalising instructions during demonstrations and providing reasons for doing things in a certain way
- techniques used to:
  - build group cohesion
  - motivate and encourage participants to keep them engaged and challenged
  - provide constructive feedback to participants
- key principles of group dynamics and techniques used to manage positive group dynamics

- signs, stages and levels of conflict within groups and techniques used to resolve at various stages of escalation
- specific to SCUBA diving activities:
  - roles and responsibilities of different activity leaders and support staff
  - communication protocols used between participants and leaders during activities
  - the purpose and importance of pre and post-dive roll calls
  - how characteristics of participants affect the selection of equipment and exposure suits:
    - age, size and weight
    - current experience in the recreational activity and skill level
    - fitness level and physical capabilities
    - injuries and medical conditions
    - emotional, behavioural and intellectual ability or disability
  - potential hazards and associated risks and safety procedures used to manage these.

Assessment Conditions

Skills must be demonstrated in an open water site where diving activities are completed from either a boat or from the shore.

The following resources must be available to replicate industry conditions of operation:

- first aid equipment, including oxygen equipment
- communication equipment for emergency response
- rescue equipment
- diver flags of a type and size that meet local maritime regulator requirements.

Assessment must ensure use of:

- a group of participants whom the individual leads
- real workplace situations, or simulated activities, or case study scenarios that test aspects of this unit that relate to:
  - activity modifications for prevailing conditions and participant needs
  - arising safety risks
  - emergency situations
  - equipment faults
- fins
- masks
- snorkels
- cylinders and valves
- buoyancy control devices with low pressure inflators
- regulators with submersible pressure gauges

- alternative air source
- weight ballast systems
- exposure suits suitable for conditions
- timing devices
- depth gauges
- dive computers
- activity plans
- template:
  - safety checklists
  - participant informed consents
  - equipment fault reports
  - incident reports
- organisational safety, emergency response and first aid procedures for SCUBA diving activities.

Assessors must satisfy the Standards for Registered Training Organisations requirements for assessors, and:

- be an individual who is currently certified and sanctioned by an industry authorised organisation to teach and assess diving skills and to authorise the issuance of C-Card certification.

SISOSCB011 Lead specialised SCUBA diving activities

Modification History

Not applicable.

Application

This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to lead and supervise or instruct dependent participants during specialised or advanced SCUBA diving activities according to predetermined activity plans which might be self-developed or developed by others. It covers the skills required to adjust activities according to prevailing conditions and participant capabilities.

It requires the ability to demonstrate and instruct specialised or advanced SCUBA techniques. To do this, leaders must be proficient in specialised or advanced SCUBA diving skills which are covered by other units.

This unit applies to any type of organisation that delivers SCUBA diving activities and dive instruction including commercial, not-for-profit and government organisations.

It applies to dive leaders, usually known as divemasters, or instructors, who work independently using discretion and judgement to manage operational logistics and risk within predetermined guidelines.

Divemasters and instructors must hold C-Card certification. They must also be certified and sanctioned by an industry authorised organisation to lead and supervise diving activities or to instruct others in diving skills and issue C-Card Certification. Industry certification for divemasters and instructors may or may not be issued concurrently with an Australian Qualification Framework (AQF) qualification or Statement of Attainment identifying achievement of competency in this unit.

Those delivering training and assessment to support this unit should consult the relevant industry bodies to determine any delivery requirements and partnership arrangements for courses, trainers and assessors that can lead to joint AQF and industry regulated divemaster and dive instructor certification.

ELEMENTS

Elements describe the essential outcomes

1. Prepare equipment and participants.
2. Brief participants and demonstrate specialised or advanced SCUBA diving techniques.
3. Lead and supervise

PERFORMANCE CRITERIA

Performance criteria describe the performance needed to demonstrate achievement of the element.

- 1.1. Assess characteristics, condition and capability of participants, as they present, and obtain informed consent.
- 1.2. Select and set up equipment and exposure suits to match participants and prevailing conditions; complete safety checks.
- 1.3. Check participants' own equipment and exposure suits, if provided, and confirm safe working condition.
- 1.4. Direct and assist participants to fit and adjust equipment and exposure suits; check comfort and safety of fit.
- 1.5. Complete pre-dive roll call.
- 2.1. Explain planned objectives; communicate instructions and information about activity in a manner appropriate to participants.
- 2.2. Encourage participants to ask questions and seek advice before and during session.
- 2.3. Inform participants of known and anticipated risks, safety procedures, safe behaviour, safe areas and boundaries.
- 2.4. Advise participants of roles and responsibilities of activity leaders, and communication protocols to use during activity.
- 2.5. Demonstrate and explain correct techniques appropriate for the activity.
- 2.6. Check and confirm participant ability to use and control equipment before activity commencement.
- 2.7. Check matching of equipment and activities to participants and amend as required.
- 3.1. Supervise activity according to designated role, adjusting

- specialised or advanced SCUBA diving activities.
- position and role as required.
- 3.2. Implement recreational instruction techniques to impart skills and knowledge for the activity.
  - 3.3. Provide clear and accurate instructions and or demonstrations throughout the session.
  - 3.4. Monitor participant performance and provide directions, encouragement and corrective instruction to improve techniques.
  - 3.5. Facilitate effective group communication and interaction to maintain group control, engagement and safety.
  - 3.6. Implement required modifications to activity, location or route to ensure participant engagement and comfort, and completion within timelines.
4. Manage safety during specialised or advanced SCUBA diving activities.
- 4.1. Monitor activity conditions and hazards, including signs of participant difficulty, to ensure safety and welfare.
  - 4.2. Monitor participant behaviour and adherence to safety procedures, adjust level of supervision and assertively correct breaches, as required.
  - 4.3. Respond immediately to adverse participant reactions and hazardous situations.
  - 4.4. Complete ongoing risk assessments to minimise risk of injury to participants and others.
  - 4.5. Amend activities if risk is unacceptable; cease activities when required.
  - 4.6. Respond to emergency situations according to organisational safety, emergency response and first aid procedures.
5. Complete post activity responsibilities.
- 5.1. Complete post-dive roll call.
  - 5.2. Debrief participants and encourage discussion on their technique and satisfaction with session.
  - 5.3. Notify relevant personnel of activity completion.
  - 5.4. Retrieve equipment, inspect for wear or breakage, tag faults and store in designated area.
  - 5.5. Document any equipment faults and incidents including injuries and near misses.
  - 5.6. Evaluate the activity through a team debrief and identify improvements for future activities.

SISOSKT001 Ski on easy cross country terrain

Modification History

Not applicable.

Application

This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to ski, as part of a group, on easy cross country terrain using a range of fundamental skills for using cross country or touring skis.

Easy cross country terrain is defined as predominantly flat to undulating terrain with, a few short steeper pitches. Skiing can be completed off track or on groomed trails, usually nominated in trail ratings as “easiest, easier or beginner”. When using Australian cross country trail maps these trails will be marked as green trails.

It applies to leaders, guides or instructors who use these skills when leading participants during ski tour activities. Leadership skills are provided in complementary units. The unit can also apply to assistants and support staff.

This unit applies to any type of organisation that delivers outdoor recreation activities including commercial, not-for-profit and government organisations.

No occupational licensing, certification or specific legislative requirements apply to this unit at the time of publication.

PERFORMANCE CRITERIA

Elements describe the essential outcomes

Performance criteria describe the performance needed to demonstrate achievement of the element.

1. Prepare for the ski tour activity.
  - 1.1. Select clothing, footwear, personal protective and other equipment suitable for conditions, and check for safe working condition.
  - 1.2. Waterproof and pack food, clothing, personal and other resources according to access requirements during activity.
  - 1.3. Interpret planned route from activity plans, trail maps and topographic maps to assist in following the trail.
  - 1.4. Confirm activity safety and emergency response procedures to ensure compliance during activities.
  - 1.5. Confirm protocols for communications between party members.
  - 1.6. Fit and adjust personal protective and ski equipment to self to ensure comfort and safety.
2. Negotiate easy cross country trails.
  - 2.1. Select ski method accounting for terrain, weather and snow conditions.
  - 2.2. Select method of climbing and turning suited to terrain, snow conditions and own ability.
  - 2.3. Choose angle of climb and slope, and complete climbs accounting for terrain, weather and snow conditions.
  - 2.4. Execute single turns through the fall-line under good snow conditions.
  - 2.5. Maintain balance and rhythm and smoothly transfer between strides, steps and turns.
  - 2.6. Modify technique to account for changes in terrain.
  - 2.7. Control line of direction and speed to safely approach, avoid or negotiate hazards.
  - 2.8. Execute a controlled fall and recover.
  - 2.9. Maintain visual contact and effective communication with party members and guard safety of self and others throughout all activities.

Assessment Requirements for SISOSKT001 Ski on easy cross country terrain

Modification History

Not applicable.

Performance Evidence

Evidence of the ability to complete tasks outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit in the context of the job role, and:

- complete three group cross country ski trips
- use methods of skiing, climbing and turning appropriate to the type of skills in use, and for the conditions, to execute the following under control:
  - maintain even pace on the flat
  - ascend and traverse slopes
  - descend slopes
  - change direction on skis going downhill
- consistently utilise appropriate, efficient and safe techniques for:
  - edging
  - degree of glide
  - pole position
  - hand and arm position
  - body position
  - knee flex
  - positioning skis with respect to each other
  - weight transfer
  - synchronisation of movement
  - falling and recovering
- during each trip consistently:
  - follow safety procedures and safely negotiate hazards
  - comply with the Alpine Responsibility Code.

Knowledge Evidence

Demonstrated knowledge required to complete the tasks outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit:

- organisational safety and emergency response procedures for ski tour activities
- key contents of the Alpine Responsibility Code and how this guides safe cross country ski tour practices

- cross country ski trail grading system and descriptions that apply in the skiing locality, colours, and symbols used on maps and trail signage
- suitable clothing, footwear and personal protective equipment for alpine regions and ski touring:
  - types of clothing and fabrics that protect against the effects of weather conditions including sun, temperatures, wind, snow and precipitation of different levels and extremes
  - reasons for layering clothes
  - effective design and construction features of:
    - windproof and waterproof gear
    - gaiters
    - ski gloves
    - ski boots for cross country skiing
    - ski goggles
- design features of cross country and alpine touring skis and poles and how characteristics affect performance:
  - length, weight and width of ski
  - grip and glide zones of ski
  - flex and shape of ski
  - longitudinal rigidity
  - ski bindings
  - metal and non-metal edges on ski
  - length of poles and basket types
- factors that affect selection of skis and poles for use on easy terrain:
  - skier ability
  - snow and weather conditions
  - terrain
- how to prepare skis for touring including methods for checking bindings for serviceability
- effective design and construction features of back packs
- techniques used to effectively pack items for ease of access and maximum usage of space
- waterproofing and packing techniques used to keep clothing, food and resources dry during ski tour activities
- communication protocols for group ski touring activities to include:
  - calls
  - hand signals
  - whistles
- for skiing on easy cross country terrain, methods used to ski, climb and turn:
  - snow plough glide and brake
  - downhill run
  - traverse downhill
  - basic skate

- double poling
- single snow plough turn
- uphill diagonal stride
- kick-turns
- step turns including side-step
- herringbone
- tack turn
- star turn
- diagonal stride
- controlled fall and recover
- for those methods, appropriate, efficient and safe techniques for:
  - edging
  - degree of glide
  - pole position
  - hand and arm position
  - body position
  - knee flex
  - positioning skis with respect to each other
  - weight transfer
  - synchronisation of movement
  - how terrain, weather and snow conditions affect choice of methods used to ski, climb and turn
- how techniques would be modified to account for changes in terrain
- techniques used to fall and recover safely
- typical hazards for cross country skiing, and techniques used to safely negotiate these:
  - poor visibility
  - temperature extremes
  - difficult snow conditions
  - trees and overhanging branches and vegetation
  - obscured logs, roots and rocks.

Assessment Conditions

Skills must be demonstrated on easy cross country terrain that are predominantly flat to undulating terrain with, a few short steeper pitches. Usually indicated on Australian alpine resort or cross country trail maps as green trails.

Skiing can be completed off track or on groomed trails, usually nominated in trail ratings as "easiest, easier or beginner".

The following resources must be available to replicate industry conditions of operation:

- first aid equipment
- communication equipment for emergency response, including alerting and tracking devices
- navigation equipment.

Assessment must ensure use of:

- clothing suitable for alpine conditions
- ski equipment which can include cross country skis or touring skis:
  - skis and bindings
  - poles
  - ski boots
  - ski goggles
- organisational safety and emergency response procedures for ski tour activities

Assessors must satisfy the Standards for Registered Training Organisations requirements for assessors, and:

- have a collective period of at least three years' experience as a cross country leader, guide, or instructor, where they have applied the skills and knowledge covered in this unit of competency; the three years' experience can incorporate full and or part time experience.

Application

This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to ski, as part of a group, on intermediate cross country terrain.

Intermediate cross country terrain is defined as predominantly hilly with a number of steep pitches. The descent sections may include moderate bends that require the skier to actively change direction. Skiing can be completed off track or on groomed trails, usually nominated in trail ratings as “more difficult”. When using Australian cross country trail maps these trails will be marked as blue and some red trails.

It applies to leaders, guides or instructors who use these skills when leading participants during ski tour activities. Leadership skills are provided in complementary units.

This unit applies to any type of organisation that delivers outdoor recreation activities including commercial, not-for-profit and government organisations.

SISOSKT003 Use snow craft skills for alpine touring

Modification History

Not applicable.

Application

This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to safely deliver recreational activities in alpine environments in heavy snow. It focuses on abilities required to sustain the physical wellbeing of self and participants in harsh cold conditions, and to survive the impacts of sudden environmental changes that are particular to alpine environments, particularly in winter.

Snow craft skills may be utilised in a range of activity contexts but this unit has particular application to alpine bushwalking, ski touring and other snowsports activities. The mode of travel in alpine regions is covered by complementary units.

It applies to leaders, guides or instructors who lead participants in activities in the alpine region under snow conditions.

This unit applies to any type of organisation that delivers outdoor recreation activities including commercial, not-for-profit and government organisations.

No occupational licensing, certification or specific legislative requirements apply to this unit at the time of publication.

Assessment Requirements for SISOSKT003 Use snow craft skills for alpine touring

Modification History

Not applicable.

Performance Evidence

Evidence of the ability to complete tasks outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit in the context of the job role, and:

- plan for two trips in an alpine environment in snow conditions, including at least one lasting for a minimum of three days
- for each of the above trips:
  - determine two different lines of travel to avoid alpine environmental hazards
  - determine equipment and resources required for emergency use, including food and water
- complete two alpine trips in snow conditions, including one with an overnight stay:
  - for each trip, select and pack equipment and resources required for emergency use
  - select appropriate location and erect a total of two tents
  - select appropriate location and construct a total of two different types of emergency snow shelters to be chosen from the following list:
    - snow cave
    - quinzhee
    - snow trench
    - snow mound
- during each trip, consistently follow safety procedures and safely negotiate hazards
- participate in simulations to:
  - respond to a participant with hypothermia and one with frostbite and provide appropriate first aid
  - prepare group for a snow storm
  - travel in a snow storm using leapfrogging technique.

Knowledge Evidence

Demonstrated knowledge required to complete the tasks outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit:

- impacts of cold temperatures on energy requirements of participants at rest and under levels demanded of snow based activities
- types of foods and beverages that provide high energy with emphasis on those that can be readily carried and prepared in alpine snow touring circumstances

- factors that contribute to avalanches and unstable snow conditions:
  - slope angle and orientation
  - elevation
  - recent weather patterns
  - deposition
  - snowpack structure
  - local instability
  - terrain
  - human activity
- areas within the locality that are known to be subject to avalanche and unstable snow conditions; and routes that can avoid these
- typical alpine environmental hazards, and techniques used to safely negotiate these:
  - ice
  - creek crossings
  - snow bridges
  - thick vegetation
  - rapidly changing conditions
    - soft snow to ice
    - rain to snow
    - benign weather to blizzard
- for hypothermia and frostbite:
  - causes and preventative methods
  - signs
  - first aid treatment
- suitable clothing, footwear and personal protective equipment for alpine regions:
  - types of clothing and fabrics that protect against the effects of weather conditions including sun, temperatures, wind, snow and precipitation of different levels and extremes
  - reasons for layering clothes
  - effective design and construction features of:
    - windproof and waterproof gear
    - gaiters
    - gloves and beanies
    - sunglasses or ski goggles
- resources that should be carried during alpine touring activities and reasons for having these available:
  - contingency food and water
  - first aid and repair kits
  - map and compass
  - stove and fuel

- whistle
- torch
- cord
- space blanket
- small shelter, sleeping bags and mats
- snow shovel
- mobile phone
- alerting and tracking devices including personal locator beacons (PLBs)
- repair kit for skis, poles, bindings and tent
- techniques used to effectively pack items for ease of access and maximum usage of space
- waterproofing and packing techniques used to keep clothing, food and resources dry during ski tour activities
- features and functions of snow shoes and bindings
- techniques to move a group in limited visibility during a snowstorm
- features of tents and pegs designed for use in the snow and techniques used to ensure stability
- features of different types of emergency snow shelters, advantages and disadvantages, and techniques used to construct and maintain stability:
  - snow cave
  - quinzhee
  - snow trench
  - snow mound
  - bothy or tarp bubble
- factors that affect the selection of a location for tents and emergency snow shelters
- importance of regularly clearing built up snow on and around tents
- importance of adequate ventilation in emergency snow shelters
- methods used to maintain:
  - safety and comfort of site
  - minimize environmental impact
  - manage human waste
  - the stability of tents and snow shelters.

Assessment Conditions

Skills must be demonstrated in an alpine environment in snow conditions.

The following resources must be available to replicate industry conditions of operation:

- first aid equipment
- communication equipment for emergency response, including alerting and tracking devices
- navigation equipment.

Assessment must ensure use of:

- a group of participants with whom the individual interacts during activities
- people who act as participants with whom the individual interacts during simulated activities
- clothing suitable for alpine conditions
- resources to include:
  - contingency food and water
  - stove and fuel
  - whistles
  - torches
  - cord
  - space blankets
  - snow tents, sleeping bags and mats
  - snow shovels.

Assessors must satisfy the Standards for Registered Training Organisations requirements for assessors, and:

- have a collective period of at least three years' experience as a leader, guide or instructor within an winter alpine area where they have applied the skills and knowledge covered in this unit of competency; the three years' experience can incorporate full and or part time experience.

SISOSKT004 Lead skiing activities on easy cross country terrain

Modification History

Not applicable.

Application

This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to lead and supervise dependent participants during skiing activities on easy cross country terrain according to predetermined activity plans which might be self-developed or developed by others. It covers the skills required to adjust activities according to prevailing conditions and participant capabilities.

It requires the ability to demonstrate and instruct skiing techniques applicable to easy cross country terrain. To do this, leaders must be proficient in skiing skills which are covered by other units.

This unit applies to any type of organisation that delivers outdoor recreation activities including commercial, not-for-profit and government organisations.

It applies to leaders who work independently using discretion and judgement to manage operational logistics and risk within predetermined guidelines.

When working at or close to base and assistance, they manage routine problems in consultation with relevant personnel. Where assistance is not immediately available, leaders use additional skills, covered by other units, to manage significant problems, e.g. rescues, injury or illness in remote locations.

Foundation Skills

SKILLS

DESCRIPTION

- Reading skills to:
- interpret detailed familiar organisational policies and procedures.
- Writing skills to:
- use fundamental sentence structure to complete forms such as safety checklists, equipment fault and incident reports that require factual information.
- Oral communications skills to:
- provide clear and unambiguous instructions to participants using language and terms easily understood
  - ask open and closed probe questions and actively listen to determine participants' understanding of instructions.
- Teamwork skills to:
- pro-actively and cooperatively work within teams of leaders, support and operational staff to organise activity logistics, solve operational problems and deliver a quality experience to participants.
- Planning and organising skills to:
- manage own timing and that of participants to complete activities within organisational service times.

Assessment Requirements for SISOSKT004 Lead skiing activities on easy cross country terrain

Modification History

Not applicable.

Performance Evidence

Evidence of the ability to complete tasks outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit in the context of the job role, and:

- lead three skiing sessions on for a group of participants according to predetermined activity plans
- across the three sessions, collectively use two different demonstration and instruction techniques
- during each session consistently manage participant adherence to safety procedures
- after each session, facilitate a debrief with participants and participate in a team member debrief
- utilize options provided in Assessment Conditions to:
  - determine a total of three required activity modifications to suit prevailing conditions and participant capabilities and responses
  - respond to a total of three different immediate safety risks that have arisen during activities
  - respond to a total of two emergency situations and complete two incident reports
  - complete two reports on equipment faults.

Knowledge Evidence

Demonstrated knowledge required to complete the tasks outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit:

- organisational safety, emergency response and first aid procedures for skiing activity sessions
- a range of demonstration and instruction techniques applicable to recreational activities
- appropriateness of different demonstration and instruction techniques for a range of ages and capabilities
- the importance of verbalising instructions during demonstrations and providing reasons for doing things in a certain way
- techniques used to:
  - build group cohesion
  - motivate and encourage participants to keep them engaged and challenged
  - provide constructive feedback to participants
- key principles of group dynamics and techniques used to manage positive group dynamics

- signs, stages and levels of conflict within groups and techniques used to resolve at various stages of escalation
- specific to skiing activities on easy cross country terrain:
  - roles and responsibilities of different activity leaders and support staff
  - communication protocols used between participants and leaders during activities
  - how characteristics of participants affect the selection of equipment, including personal protective equipment:
    - age, size and weight
    - current experience in the recreational activity and skill level
    - fitness level and physical capabilities
    - injuries and medical conditions
    - emotional, behavioural and intellectual ability or disability
  - potential hazards and associated risks and safety procedures used to manage these.

Assessment Conditions

Skills must be demonstrated on easy cross country terrain that are predominantly flat to undulating terrain with, a few short steeper pitches. Usually indicated on Australian alpine resort or cross country trail maps as green trails.

Skiing can be completed off track or on groomed trails, usually nominated in trail ratings as "easiest, easier or beginner".

The following resources must be available to replicate industry conditions of operation:

- first aid equipment
- communication equipment for emergency response
- rescue equipment.

Assessment must ensure use of:

- a group of participants whom the individual leads
- real workplace situations, or simulated activities, or case study scenarios that test aspects of this unit that relate to:
  - activity modifications for prevailing conditions and participant needs
  - arising safety risks
  - emergency situations
  - equipment faults
- clothing suitable for winter alpine conditions
- ski equipment which can include cross country skis or touring skis:
  - skis and bindings
  - poles

- ski boots
- ski goggles
- activity plans
- template:
  - safety checklists
  - participant informed consents
  - equipment fault reports
  - incident reports
- organisational safety, emergency response and first aid procedures for skiing activity sessions.

Assessors must satisfy the Standards for Registered Training Organisations requirements for assessors, and:

- have a collective period of at least three years' experience as a cross country skiing leader, guide or instructor, where they have applied the skills and knowledge covered in this unit of competency; the three years' experience can incorporate full and or part time experience.

Assessment Requirements for SISOSNK001 Snorkel

Modification History

Not applicable.

Performance Evidence

Evidence of the ability to complete tasks outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit in the context of the job role, and:

- complete two group snorkelling activities
- during each activity consistently:
  - follow safety procedures and safely negotiate hazards
  - utilise effective techniques to:
    - defog mask
    - enter and exit the water
    - breath through a snorkel to maintain a comfortable rate of respiration
    - clear a snorkel and mask after flooding
    - equalise pressure
    - duck dive underwater using a snorkel
    - propel self using fins on the surface and underwater
    - maintain buoyancy.

Knowledge Evidence

Demonstrated knowledge required to complete the tasks outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit:

- organisational safety and emergency response procedures for snorkelling activities
- exposure protection swim wear suitable for snorkelling activities:
  - types of swim wear and fabrics that protect against the effects of weather and water conditions including sun, temperatures and winds of different levels and extremes
  - features and uses of exposure suits, booties and gloves of different styles and grades suited to different conditions
- features and functions of the following equipment and how to fit and adjust these for comfort and safety:
  - inflatable snorkel vests
  - snorkel masks
  - fins, both adjustable and full foot
  - snorkel and snorkel keeper
- communication protocols for group snorkelling activities to include:
  - calls

- hand signals
- whistles
- techniques used to:
  - defog masks using spit and solutions
  - enter and exit the water
  - breath through a snorkel to maintain a comfortable rate of respiration
  - clear a snorkel and mask after flooding
  - equalise pressure
  - duck dive underwater using a snorkel
  - propel self using fins on the surface and underwater
- factors affecting buoyancy and how to control sinking and floating
- sea features including currents, waves and tides sufficient to understand the impacts on snorkelling activities and locations
- typical hazards associated with snorkelling and swimming in confined and open waters, and techniques used to safely negotiate these:
  - marine life including coral and stingers
  - underwater vegetation
  - submerged objects
  - sections of dark, deep or cold water
  - tidal flow and currents
  - water craft
- atmospheric risks associated with snorkelling and how to manage these:
  - hypothermia
  - hyperthermia
  - sunburn
- barotrauma:
  - meaning
  - cause, at a basic level of understanding
  - common types associated with snorkelling, including mask squeeze and facial barotrauma
  - ways of minimising risk
- shallow water blackout:
  - causes, including hyperventilation and overexertion
  - consequences
  - ways of minimising risk
- the relationship between pressure, volume and temperature at a basic level of understanding and consequences for snorkellers.

Assessment Conditions

Skills must be demonstrated in confined or open waters within natural aquatic environments.

Confined waters can be confined swimming areas at natural venues such as lakes, dams and non-surf beaches. Open waters can include an unrestricted body of water including that accessed from beaches with direct access to ocean waters.

The following resources must be available to replicate industry conditions of operation:

- first aid equipment
- communication equipment for emergency response
- surface flags or markers
- rescue equipment.

Assessment must ensure use of:

- a group of participants with whom the individual interacts during snorkelling activities
- exposure protection swim wear suitable for conditions, and exposure suits as required
- snorkel masks
- snorkels and snorkel keepers
- fins
- organisational safety and emergency response procedures for snorkelling activities.

Assessors must satisfy the Standards for Registered Training Organisations requirements for assessors.

SISOSNK002 Lead snorkelling activities

Modification History

Not applicable.

Application

This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to lead and supervise dependent participants during snorkelling activities according to predetermined activity plans which might be self-developed or developed by others. It covers the skills required to adjust activities according to prevailing conditions and participant capabilities.

It requires the ability to demonstrate and instruct snorkelling techniques. To do this, leaders must be proficient in snorkelling skills which are covered by other units.

This unit applies to any type of organisation that delivers outdoor recreation activities including commercial, not-for-profit and government organisations.

It applies to leaders who work independently using discretion and judgement to manage operational logistics and risk within predetermined guidelines.

When working at or close to base and assistance, they manage routine problems in consultation with relevant personnel. Where assistance is not immediately available, leaders use additional skills, covered by other units, to manage significant problems, e.g. rescues, injury or illness in remote locations.

SKILLS

DESCRIPTION

Reading skills to:

- interpret detailed familiar organisational policies and

- procedures.
- Writing skills to:
- use fundamental sentence structure to complete forms such as safety checklists, equipment fault and incident reports that require factual information.
- Oral communications skills to:
- provide clear and unambiguous instructions to participants using language and terms easily understood
  - ask open and closed probe questions and actively listen to determine participants' understanding of instructions.
- Teamwork skills to:
- pro-actively and cooperatively work within teams of leaders, support and operational staff to organise activity logistics, solve operational problems and deliver a quality experience to participants.
- Planning and organising skills to:
- manage own timing and that of participants to complete activities within organisational service times.

Assessment Requirements for SISOSNK002 Lead snorkelling activities

Modification History

Not applicable.

Performance Evidence

Evidence of the ability to complete tasks outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit in the context of the job role, and:

- lead three snorkelling sessions for a group of participants according to predetermined activity plans
- across the three sessions, collectively use two different demonstration and instruction techniques
- during each session consistently manage participant adherence to safety procedures
- after each session, facilitate a debrief with participants and participate in a team member debrief
- utilise options provided in Assessment Conditions to:
  - determine a total of three required activity modifications to suit prevailing conditions and participant capabilities and responses
  - respond to a total of three different immediate safety risks that have arisen during activities
  - respond to a total of two emergency situations and complete two incident reports
  - complete two reports on equipment faults.

Knowledge Evidence

Demonstrated knowledge required to complete the tasks outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit:

- organisational safety, emergency response and first aid procedures for snorkelling activity sessions
- a range of demonstration and instruction techniques applicable to recreational activities
- appropriateness of different demonstration and instruction techniques for a range of ages and capabilities
- the importance of verbalising instructions during demonstrations and providing reasons for doing things in a certain way
- techniques used to:
  - build group cohesion
  - motivate and encourage participants to keep them engaged and challenged
  - provide constructive feedback to participants
- key principles of group dynamics and techniques used to manage positive group dynamics

- signs, stages and levels of conflict within groups and techniques used to resolve at various stages of escalation
- specific to snorkelling activities:
  - roles and responsibilities of different activity leaders and support staff
  - communication protocols used between participants and leaders during activities
  - how characteristics of participants affect the selection of equipment and exposure suits:
    - age, size and weight
    - current experience in the recreational activity and skill level
    - fitness level and physical capabilities
    - injuries and medical conditions
    - emotional, behavioural and intellectual ability or disability
  - potential hazards and associated risks and safety procedures used to manage these
  - designated area for snorkelling.

Assessment must ensure use of:

- a group of participants whom the individual leads
- real workplace situations, or simulated activities, or case study scenarios that test aspects of this unit that relate to:
  - activity modifications for prevailing conditions and participant needs
  - arising safety risks
  - emergency situations
  - equipment faults
- exposure protection swim wear suitable for conditions, and exposure suits as required
- snorkel masks
- snorkels and snorkel keepers
- fins
- activity plans
- template:
  - safety checklists

- participant informed consents
- equipment fault reports
- incident reports
- organisational safety, emergency response and first aid procedures for snorkelling activity sessions.

Assessors must satisfy the Standards for Registered Training Organisations requirements for assessors.

1. Prepare to surf.
  - 1.1. Select surfboard and other equipment suitable for conditions, check for safe working condition and wax board, as required.
  - 1.2. Select exposure protection surf wear or exposure suit suitable for conditions; fit and adjust to ensure comfort and safety.
  - 1.3. Select a suitable area for surfing activities according to current conditions.
  - 1.4. Confirm activity safety and emergency response procedures to ensure compliance during activities.
  - 1.5. Confirm protocols for communications between party members and with others.
2. Manoeuvre the surfboard through small waves.
  - 2.1. Select a safe location to enter the water and face surfboard into oncoming waves.
  - 2.2. Propel surfboard through flat water, broken and unbroken waves with leg rope attached.
  - 2.3. Mount, sit and lay on board while maintaining balance.
  - 2.4. Paddle the board in trim to propel and control it through flat water, broken and unbroken waves.
3. Catch and ride small waves using basic manoeuvres.
  - 3.1. Observe surfing etiquette when catching and riding waves.
  - 3.2. Catch broken waves under control without wiping out.
  - 3.3. Catch and ride green waves on an angle, executing basic turns, and trim board during manoeuvres.
  - 3.4. Dismount board, safely, from prone and standing position.
4. Maintain own safety, and self rescue in small surf conditions.
  - 4.1. Safely approach, avoid or negotiate hazards to minimise risk of injury while surfing.
  - 4.2. Use techniques to maintain safety of self and others in the event of a wipe out.
  - 4.3. Maintain stability in water when separated from surfboard and return to shore.
  - 4.4. Recognise situations when assistance is required and implement required actions.

Assessment Requirements for SISOSRF001 Surf small waves using basic manoeuvres

Modification History

Not applicable.

Performance Evidence

Evidence of the ability to complete tasks outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit in the context of the job role, and:

- complete three group surfing sessions as follows:
  - complete one session in surf with broken waves
  - complete two sessions on green waves
- during these sessions consistently:
  - follow safety procedures and safely negotiate hazards
  - comply with surfing etiquette
  - utilise fundamental techniques to effectively:
    - manoeuvre surfboard through small waves under control
    - catch and ride small waves under control
    - trim along green waves
    - execute small basic turns
- participate in simulations to:
  - wipe out on three occasions and use wipe out techniques appropriate for the circumstance
  - return to shore when separated from surfboard on three occasions
  - take actions to seek assistance when self rescue cannot be achieved, on two occasions.

Knowledge Evidence

Demonstrated knowledge required to complete the tasks outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit:

- organisational safety and emergency response procedures for surfing activities
- etiquette applicable to surfing including generally accepted rules for right of way, giving way, dropping in and avoiding other surf users
- exposure protection surf wear suitable for surfing activities:
  - types of surf wear and fabrics that protect against the effects of weather and water conditions including sun, temperatures and winds of different levels and extremes
  - features and uses of exposure suits of different styles and grades suited to different conditions

- types of surfboards suitable for use in small waves and for basic manoeuvres to include hard and soft surfboards and:
  - different construction materials, effects on performance, advantages and disadvantages
  - design features, manoeuvrability characteristics and limitations
- reasons for waxing surfboards and techniques for applying
- features and uses of leg ropes
- communication protocols for surfing activities to include:
  - calls
  - hand signals, including distress signals
  - whistles
- features of surf environments:
  - characteristics of different types of waves
  - types of waves suitable for surfing and how to select waves suitable for own ability
  - winds, currents, tides, swell and ocean floor sufficient to understand effects on surf conditions, impacts on surfing activities and appropriate responses
  - distinguishing signs of rips
  - beach zones and signs used at patrolled beaches
- fundamental techniques for surfing:
  - correct use of body weight and balance to mount board and to sit and stand
  - paddling the board in trim
  - correct use of body weight and balance for:
    - turning the board while sitting
    - basic trimming
    - small basic turns
- typical hazards associated with surfing, and techniques used to safely negotiate these:
  - temperature extremes
  - rips
  - lateral currents
  - marine animals
  - rocks
  - sandbars
  - other water users: surfers, swimmers, other small craft
  - large waves
  - shore breaks
  - dumping waves
- techniques used in the event of a wipe out:
  - covering head with arms
  - wrestling or holding board tight when in prone position
  - pushing board clear with feet when in the water and when standing
  - waiting for turbulence to subside

- floating to the surface in a horizontal position
- techniques used to return to shore without surfboard:
  - appropriate surf swimming strokes - defensive and aggressive
  - taking breaks when tired, floating and treading water
  - swimming or paddling diagonally across rips, when present
- actions that can be taken when unable to self rescue:
  - using recognised signals for assistance to contact others in water and lifeguards
  - remaining with surfboard and using as flotation device
  - floating and treading water.

Assessment Conditions

Skills must be demonstrated in a surfing environment which features the following:

- small breaking waves up to 0.5 metre
- beach breaks with sand bottom
- areas free from rips
- water depth of chest height or less.

The following resources must be available to replicate industry conditions of operation:

- first aid equipment
- communication equipment for emergency response
- rescue equipment.

Assessment must ensure use of:

- a group of participants with whom the individual interacts during surfing activities
- exposure protection surf wear suitable for conditions, and exposure suits as required
- surfboards which can include soft and hard boards
- leg ropes
- surfboard wax, as relevant
- organisational safety and emergency response procedures for surfing activities.

Assessors must satisfy the Standards for Registered Training Organisations requirements for assessors, and:

- have a collective period of at least three years' experience as a surfing instructor or guide where they have applied the skills and knowledge covered in this unit of competency; the three years' experience can incorporate full and or part time experience.

1.1. Select surfboard and other equipment suitable for conditions, check for safe working condition and wax

- board, as required.
- 1.2. Select exposure protection surf wear or exposure suit suitable for conditions; fit and adjust to ensure comfort and safety.
  - 1.3. Select a suitable area for surfing activities according to current conditions.
  - 1.4. Confirm activity safety and emergency response procedures to ensure compliance during activities.
  - 1.5. Confirm protocols for communications between party members and with others.
2. Manoeuvre the surfboard through advanced waves.
    - 2.1. Enter water in safe location, identify rips and select route to unbroken wave area.
    - 2.2. Paddle the board in trim to propel and control it through broken and unbroken waves.
    - 2.3. Negotiate broken and unbroken waves using duck dive and Eskimo roll manoeuvres.
3. Catch and ride waves using advanced manoeuvres.
    - 3.1. Observe surfing etiquette when catching and riding waves.
    - 3.2. Select appropriate waves to catch and identify optimum take off position.
    - 3.3. Ride waves under control from start to finish and exit wave safely.
    - 3.4. Traverse left and right along green face of spilling waves and maintain control of board.
    - 3.5. Execute bottom turns, top turns, re-entries, roundhouse and other cutbacks and trim board during manoeuvres.
    - 3.6. Link a range of surfing manoeuvres.
    - 3.7. Dismount board, safely, from prone and standing position.
4. Maintain own safety, and self rescue in advanced surf conditions.
    - 4.1. Safely approach, avoid or negotiate hazards to minimise risk of injury while surfing.
    - 4.2. Use techniques to maintain safety of self and others in the event of a wipe out.
    - 4.3. Maintain stability in water when separated from surfboard and return to shore.
    - 4.4. Recognise situations when assistance is required and implement required actions.

Foundation Skills

Foundation skills essential to performance in this unit, but not explicit in the performance

Assessment Requirements for SISOSRF003 Surf waves using advanced manoeuvres

Modification History

Not applicable.

Performance Evidence

Evidence of the ability to complete tasks outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit in the context of the job role, and:

- complete three group surfing sessions
- during each session consistently:
  - follow safety procedures and safely negotiate hazards
  - comply with surfing etiquette
  - utilise advanced techniques to effectively:
    - manoeuvre surfboards through advanced waves under control using duck dives and Eskimo rolls
    - select, catch and ride advanced waves under control from start to finish
    - traverse both left and right along green face of spilling waves and maintain control of board
    - execute bottom turns, tops turns, re-entries, and roundhouse and other cutbacks on forehand and backhand, and link a range of those manoeuvres
- participate in simulations to:
  - wipe out on three occasions and use wipe out techniques appropriate for the circumstance
  - return to shore when separated from surfboard on three occasions
  - take actions to seek assistance when self rescue cannot be achieved, on two occasions.

Knowledge Evidence

Demonstrated knowledge required to complete the tasks outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit:

- organisational safety and emergency response procedures for surfing activities
- etiquette applicable to surfing including generally accepted rules for right of way, giving way, dropping in and avoiding other surf users
- exposure protection surf wear suitable for surfing activities:
  - types of surf wear and fabrics that protect against the effects of weather and water conditions including sun, temperatures and winds of different levels and extremes
  - features and uses of exposure suits of different styles and grades suited to different conditions

- types of surfboards suitable for use in advanced wave conditions and for advanced manoeuvres and:
  - different construction materials, effects on performance, advantages and disadvantages
  - design features, manoeuvrability characteristics and limitations
- reasons for waxing surfboards and techniques for applying
- features and uses of leg ropes
- communication protocols for surfing activities to include:
  - calls
  - hand signals, including distress signals
  - whistles
- features of surf environments:
  - characteristics of different types of waves including those that peel left and right
  - characteristics of waves at these different surf breaks:
    - beach
    - point
    - reef
    - river mouth
    - bombora
  - types of waves suitable for surfing and how to select waves suitable for own ability
  - winds, currents, tides, swell and ocean floor sufficient to understand effects on surf conditions, impacts on surfing activities and appropriate responses
  - distinguishing signs of rips
  - beach zones and signs used at patrolled beaches
- how body weight and speed affect surfing
- advanced techniques for surfing:
  - correct use of body weight and balance to mount board and to sit and stand
  - paddling the board in trim to maintain control
  - using duck dive and Eskimo rolls to negotiate waves
  - correct use of body weight and balance for:
    - traversing left and right along the green face of a spilling wave
    - forehand and backhand trimming
    - forehand bottom and top turns
    - cutback on forehand and backhand
    - re-entry
    - roundhouse cutback on forehand and backhand
  - how to link manoeuvres
- typical hazards associated with surfing, and techniques used to safely negotiate these:
  - temperature extremes
  - rips
  - lateral currents

- marine animals
- rocks
- sandbars
- other water users: surfers, swimmers, other small craft
- large waves
- shore breaks
- dumping waves
- techniques used in the event of a wipe out:
  - covering head with arms
  - wrestling or holding board tight when in prone position
  - pushing board clear with feet when in the water and when standing
  - waiting for turbulence to subside
  - floating to the surface in a horizontal position
- techniques used to return to shore without surfboard:
  - appropriate surf swimming strokes - defensive and aggressive
  - taking breaks when tired, floating and treading water
  - swimming or paddling diagonally across rips, when present
- actions that can be taken when unable to self rescue:
  - using recognised signals for assistance to contact others in water and lifeguards
  - remaining with surfboard and using as flotation device
  - floating and treading water.

Assessment Conditions

Skills must be demonstrated in a surfing environment which features the following:

- open faced peeling waves up to two metres
- beach breaks, river mouth, point breaks or reef breaks
- rips may be present.

The following resources must be available to replicate industry conditions of operation:

- first aid equipment
- communication equipment for emergency response
- rescue equipment.

Assessment must ensure use of:

- a group of participants with whom the individual interacts during surfing activities
- exposure protection surf wear suitable for conditions, and exposure suits as required
- surfboards
- leg ropes

- surfboard wax
- organisational safety and emergency response procedures for surfing activities.

Assessors must satisfy the Standards for Registered Training Organisations requirements for assessors, and:

- have a collective period of at least three years' experience as a surfing instructor or guide, where they have applied the skills and knowledge covered in this unit of competency; the three years' experience can incorporate full and or part time experience.

SISOSRF004 Lead surfing activities, small waves and basic manoeuvres

Modification History

Not applicable.

Application

This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to instruct or guide new or inexperienced dependent participant surfers during activities in small wave conditions according to predetermined plans. It covers the skills required to adjust activities according to prevailing conditions and participant capabilities.

It requires the ability to develop session plans and to demonstrate and instruct basic surfing manoeuvres. To do this, instructors and guides must be proficient in surfing skills which are covered by other units.

This unit applies to any type of organisation that delivers outdoor recreation activities including commercial, not-for-profit and government organisations.

It applies to instructors and guides who work independently using discretion and judgement to manage operational logistics and risk within predetermined guidelines.

When working at or close to base and assistance, they manage routine problems in consultation with relevant personnel. Where assistance is not immediately available, leaders use additional skills, covered by other units, to manage significant problems, e.g. rescues, injury or illness in remote locations.

No occupational licensing, certification or specific legislative requirements apply to this unit at the time of publication.

Assessment Requirements for SISOSRF004 Lead surfing activities, small waves and basic manoeuvres

Modification History

Not applicable.

Performance Evidence

Evidence of the ability to complete tasks outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit in the context of the job role, and:

- lead three surfing sessions for a group of participants according to predetermined session plans
- across the three sessions, collectively use two different demonstration and instruction techniques
- during each session consistently manage participant adherence to safety procedures
- after each session, facilitate a debrief with participants and participate in a team member debrief
- utilise options provided in Assessment Conditions to:
  - determine a total of three required activity modifications to suit prevailing conditions and participant capabilities and responses
  - respond to a total of three different immediate safety risks that have arisen during activities
  - respond to a total of two emergency situations and complete two incident reports
  - complete two reports on equipment faults.

Knowledge Evidence

Demonstrated knowledge required to complete the tasks outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit:

- organisational safety, emergency response and first aid procedures for surfing activity sessions
- format and inclusions of session plans
- a range of demonstration and instruction techniques applicable to recreational activities
- appropriateness of different demonstration and instruction techniques for a range of ages and capabilities
- the importance of verbalising instructions during demonstrations and providing reasons for doing things in a certain way
- techniques used to:
  - build group cohesion
  - motivate and encourage participants to keep them engaged and challenged
  - provide constructive feedback to participants

- key principles of group dynamics and techniques used to manage positive group dynamics
- signs, stages and levels of conflict within groups and techniques used to resolve at various stages of escalation
- specific to surfing activities in small wave conditions:
  - roles and responsibilities of different activity leaders and support staff
  - communication protocols used between participants and leaders during activities
  - how characteristics of participants affect the choice of sessional activities and selection of equipment and exposure suits:
    - age, size and weight
    - current experience in surfing and skill level
    - skill development needs
    - fitness level and physical capabilities
    - injuries and medical conditions
    - emotional, behavioural and intellectual ability or disability
  - a range of warm-up exercises
  - potential hazards and associated risks and safety procedures used to manage these.

Assessment Conditions

Skills must be demonstrated in a surfing environment which features the following:

- small breaking waves up to 0.5 metre
- beach breaks with sand bottom
- areas free from rips
- water depth of chest height or less.

The following resources must be available to replicate industry conditions of operation:

- first aid equipment
- communication equipment for emergency response
- rescue equipment.

Assessment must ensure use of:

- a group of participants whom the individual instructs or guides
- real workplace situations, or simulated activities, or case study scenarios that test aspects of this unit that relate to:
  - activity modifications for prevailing conditions and participant needs
  - arising safety risks
  - emergency situations
  - equipment faults
- exposure protection surf wear suitable for conditions, and exposure suits as required
- surfboards which can include soft and hard boards

- leg ropes
- surfboard wax, as relevant
- participant profiles to include:
  - age, size and weight
  - current experience in surfing and skill level
  - skill development needs
  - fitness level and physical capabilities
  - injuries and medical conditions
  - emotional, behavioural and intellectual ability or disability
- template:
  - session plans
  - safety checklists
  - participant informed consents
  - equipment fault reports
  - incident reports
- organisational safety, emergency response and first aid procedures for surfing activity sessions.

Assessors must satisfy the Standards for Registered Training Organisations requirements for assessors, and:

  4. Lead surfing activities in waves up to two metres.
    - 4.1. Prepare participants for activity using warm up exercises.
    - 4.2. Implement recreational instruction techniques to impart skills and knowledge for advanced surfing skills.
    - 4.3. Provide clear and accurate instructions and or demonstrations throughout the session.
    - 4.4. Monitor participant performance and provide directions, encouragement and corrective instruction to improve techniques.
    - 4.5. Facilitate effective group communication and interaction to maintain group control, engagement and safety.
    - 4.6. Implement required modifications to activity, location or route to ensure participant engagement and comfort, and completion within timelines.
  5. Manage safety during surfing activities in waves up to two metres.
    - 5.1. Monitor surfing conditions and hazards, including signs of participant difficulty, to ensure safety and welfare.
    - 5.2. Monitor participant behaviour and adherence to safety procedures, adjust level of supervision and assertively correct breaches, as required.
    - 5.3. Respond immediately to adverse participant reactions and hazardous situations.
    - 5.4. Complete ongoing risk assessments to minimise risk of injury to participants and others.
    - 5.5. Amend activities if risk is unacceptable; cease activities when required.
    - 5.6. Respond to emergency situations according to organisational safety, emergency response and first aid procedures.
  6. Complete post activity responsibilities.
    - 6.1. Debrief participants and encourage discussion on their technique and satisfaction with session.
    - 6.2. Notify relevant personnel of activity completion.
    - 6.3. Retrieve equipment, inspect for wear or breakage, tag faults and store in designated area.
    - 6.4. Document any equipment faults and incidents including injuries and near misses.
    - 6.5. Evaluate the activity through a team debrief and identify improvements for future activities.

Assessment Requirements for SISOSRF006 Lead surfing activities, advanced manoeuvres

Modification History

Not applicable.

Performance Evidence

Evidence of the ability to complete tasks outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit in the context of the job role, and:

- lead three surfing sessions for a group of participants according to predetermined session plans
- across the three sessions, collectively use two different demonstration and instruction techniques
- during each session consistently manage participant adherence to safety procedures
- after each session, facilitate a debrief with participants and participate in a team member debrief
- utilise options provided in Assessment Conditions to:
  - determine a total of three required activity modifications to suit prevailing conditions and participant capabilities and responses
  - respond to a total of three different immediate safety risks that have arisen during activities
  - respond to a total of two emergency situations and complete two incident reports
  - complete two reports on equipment faults.

Knowledge Evidence

Demonstrated knowledge required to complete the tasks outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit:

- organisational safety, emergency response and first aid procedures for surfing activity sessions
- format and inclusions of session plans
- a range of demonstration and instruction techniques applicable to recreational activities
- appropriateness of different demonstration and instruction techniques for a range of ages and capabilities
- the importance of verbalising instructions during demonstrations and providing reasons for doing things in a certain way
- techniques used to:
  - build group cohesion
  - motivate and encourage participants to keep them engaged and challenged
  - provide constructive feedback to participants

- key principles of group dynamics and techniques used to manage positive group dynamics
- signs, stages and levels of conflict within groups and techniques used to resolve at various stages of escalation
- specific to advanced surfing activities in waves up to two metres:
  - roles and responsibilities of different activity leaders and support staff
  - communication protocols used between participants and leaders during activities
  - how characteristics of participants affect the choice of sessional activities and selection of equipment and exposure suits:
    - age, size and weight
    - current experience in surfing and skill level
    - skill development needs
    - fitness level and physical capabilities
    - injuries and medical conditions
    - emotional, behavioural and intellectual ability or disability
  - a range of warm up exercises
  - potential hazards and associated risks and safety procedures used to manage these.

Assessment Conditions

Skills must be demonstrated in a surfing environment which features the following:

- open faced peeling waves up to two metres
- beach breaks, river mouth, point breaks or reef breaks
- rips may be present.

The following resources must be available to replicate industry conditions of operation:

- first aid equipment
- communication equipment for emergency response
- rescue equipment.

Assessment must ensure use of:

- a group of participants whom the individual instructs or guides
- real workplace situations, or simulated activities, or case study scenarios that test aspects of this unit that relate to:
  - activity modifications for prevailing conditions and participant needs
  - arising safety risks
  - emergency situations
  - equipment faults
- exposure protection surf wear suitable for conditions, and exposure suits as required
- surfboards
- leg ropes

- surfboard wax
- participant profiles to include:
  - age, size and weight
  - current experience in surfing and skill level
  - skill development needs
  - fitness level and physical capabilities
  - injuries and medical conditions
  - emotional, behavioural and intellectual ability or disability
- template:
  - session plans
  - safety checklists
  - participant informed consents
  - equipment fault reports
  - incident reports
- organisational safety, emergency response and first aid procedures for surfing activity sessions.

Assessors must satisfy the Standards for Registered Training Organisations requirements for assessors, and:

- have a collective period of at least three years' experience as a surfing instructor or guide, where they have applied the skills and knowledge covered in this unit of competency; the three years' experience can incorporate full and or part time experience.

SISOSUP001 Paddle a stand up board on inland flatwater

Modification History

Not applicable.

Application

This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to paddle a stand up board as part of a group on inland flatwater areas such as lakes, dams and slow moving rivers. It requires the ability to self-rescue from a dismount and to rescue others in deep water.

The unit provides skills to paddle on bodies of water in less than moderate wind conditions, where the current flow is consistently recorded as less than one knot.

It applies to leaders, guides or instructors, who use these skills when leading participants during stand up paddle boarding activities. Leadership skills are provided in complementary units. The unit can also apply to assistants and support staff.

This unit applies to any type of organisation that delivers outdoor recreation activities including commercial, not-for-profit and government organisations.

No occupational licensing, certification or specific legislative requirements apply to this unit at the time of publication.

Assessment Requirements for SISOSUP001 Paddle a stand up board on inland flatwater

Modification History

Not applicable.

Performance Evidence

Evidence of the ability to complete tasks outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit in the context of the job role, and:

- complete three group stand up paddle boarding sessions
- during each session consistently:
  - follow safety procedures and safely negotiate hazards
  - control direction of stand up paddle board forward, in reverse and when turning using appropriate stance, and this range of strokes:
    - forward and reverse paddle
    - forward and reverse sweeps
    - bow draw stroke
    - emergency stop
- participate in simulations to:
  - re-establish a flipped paddle board and remount in deep water on two occasions
  - return to shore, swimming a maximum distance of 50 metres, when separated from paddle board on two occasions
  - complete two deep water rescues to assist a single paddler re-establish a flipped paddle board and remount
  - provide two tows using a towline with a quick release system.

Knowledge Evidence

Demonstrated knowledge required to complete the tasks outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit:

- organisational safety and emergency response procedures for stand up paddle boarding activities
- exposure protection swim wear suitable for paddle boarding activities:
  - types of swim wear and fabrics that protect against the effects of weather and water conditions including sun, temperatures and winds of different levels and extremes
  - features and uses of exposure suits of different styles and grades suited to different conditions
- types of footwear suitable for paddle boarding including specialist footwear and when it might be required in preference to bare feet

- types of stand up paddle boards suitable for use in flatwater conditions and:
  - location and function of different parts of the board
  - different construction materials, effects on performance, advantages and disadvantages
  - design features, handling characteristics and limitations: manoeuvrability, stability and speed
  - features and use of leashes
- types of paddles suitable for use with paddle boards in flatwater conditions, different construction materials and designs, effects on performance, advantages and disadvantages
- communication protocols for group paddle boarding activities to include:
  - calls
  - hand and paddle signals, including distress signals
  - whistles
- hydrological features of flatwater areas such as lakes, dams and slow moving rivers sufficient to understand the impacts on stand up paddle boarding activities
- typical hazards associated with paddling and swimming in flatwater conditions, and techniques used to safely negotiate these:
  - currents
  - built objects – weirs, piers
  - steep or slippery banks or shore
  - overhanging trees
  - fallen trees on waterway
  - submerged logs, rocks and vegetation
  - sections of dark, deep or cold water
  - boating traffic
- techniques used on flatwater to launch, mount, land and dismount stand up paddle boards from shore
- a range of strokes used in flatwater conditions to direct paddle board forward, in reverse and when turning:
  - forward and reverse paddle
  - forward and reverse sweeps
  - bow draw stroke
  - emergency stop
- for each of the above strokes:
  - correct posture and feet position
  - correct hand placement on paddle and movement of top and bottom hand through the stroke
  - arm and body movement required to enable correct blade placement in water
  - correct paddle entry and exit points in relation to board and body position
  - appropriate paddle depth in water to achieve effective stroke
  - correct paddle blade angle throughout stroke
- for self rescues:

- techniques used to flip paddle board and remount in deep water
- methods used to control and manoeuvre the paddle and board to rescue craft and shore
- appropriate swimming strokes and techniques - defensive and aggressive
- techniques for taking breaks when tired from swimming - floating and treading water
- for deep water rescues, the specific application of the following to flatwater conditions and stand up paddle boards:
  - approach and flip technique
  - techniques for using a towline with a quick release system including appropriate knots and how to tie them
  - roles and responsibilities that can be allocated to team members and participants to effectively complete a rescue.

Assessment Conditions

Skills must be demonstrated on inland flatwater areas which can be lakes, dams or slow moving rivers. The environment must feature the following:

- less than moderate wind conditions
- current flow is consistently documented as less than 1 knot.

An area for assessment should not be classified as flatwater if any of the following conditions are present:

- rapids of any grade
- surf of any size
- fetch greater than 1 nautical mile.

The following resources must be available to replicate industry conditions of operation:

- first aid equipment
- communication equipment for emergency response.

Assessment must ensure use of:

- a group of participants with whom the individual interacts during stand up paddle boarding activities
- exposure protection swim wear suitable for conditions, and exposure suits as required
- pea-less whistles not affected by water
- stand up paddle boards and leashes
- paddles
- rescue equipment:
  - towlines
  - knives
- template safety checklists

- organisational safety and emergency response procedures for paddle boarding activities.

Assessors must satisfy the Standards for Registered Training Organisations requirements for assessors, and:

- have a collective period of at least three years' experience as a stand up paddle boarding instructor or guide, where they have applied the skills and knowledge covered in this unit of competency; the three years' experience can incorporate full and or part time experience.

Assessment Requirements for SISOSUP002 Paddle a stand up board in small waves

Modification History

Not applicable.

Performance Evidence

Evidence of the ability to complete tasks outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit in the context of the job role, and:

- complete three group stand up paddle boarding sessions as follows:
  - complete one session in surf with broken waves
  - complete two sessions on green waves
- during these sessions consistently:
  - follow safety procedures and safely negotiate hazards
  - comply with surfing etiquette
  - utilise fundamental techniques to effectively:
    - manoeuvre stand up paddle board through small waves under control
    - catch and ride small waves under control
    - trim along green waves
    - execute small basic turns
- participate in simulations to:
  - wipe out on three occasions and use wipe out techniques appropriate for the circumstance
  - return to shore when separated from paddle board on three occasions
  - take actions to seek assistance when self rescue cannot be achieved, on two occasions.

Knowledge Evidence

Demonstrated knowledge required to complete the tasks outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit:

- organisational safety and emergency response procedures for stand up paddle boarding activities
- etiquette applicable to surfing including generally accepted rules for right of way, giving way, dropping in and avoiding other surf users
- exposure protection surf wear suitable for paddle boarding activities:
  - types of surf wear and fabrics that protect against the effects of weather and water conditions including sun, temperatures and winds of different levels and extremes
  - features and uses of exposure suits of different styles and grades suited to different conditions

- types of footwear suitable for paddle boarding including specialist footwear and when it might be required in preference to bare feet
- types of stand up paddle board suitable for use in small surf conditions and for basic manoeuvres and:
  - different construction materials, effects on performance, advantages and disadvantages
  - design features, manoeuvrability characteristics and limitations
  - features and use of leashes
- types of paddles suitable for use with paddle boards in small surf conditions, different construction materials and designs, effects on performance, advantages and disadvantages
- communication protocols for group stand up paddle boarding activities to include:
  - calls
  - hand and paddle signals, including distress signals
  - whistles
- features of surf environments:
  - characteristics of different types of waves
  - types of waves suitable for stand up paddle boarding and how to select waves suitable for own ability
  - winds, currents, tides, swell and ocean floor sufficient to understand effects on surf conditions, impacts on paddle boarding activities and appropriate responses
  - distinguishing signs of rips
  - beach zones and signs used at patrolled beaches
- fundamental techniques for surfing a stand up paddle board:
  - correct use of body weight and balance to mount board and to stand
  - paddling the board in trim
  - paddling techniques and correct use of body weight, and stance for:
    - catching waves
    - turning the board
    - basic trimming
    - small basic turns
- typical hazards associated with paddle boarding in surf, and techniques used to safely negotiate these:
  - temperature extremes
  - rips
  - lateral currents
  - marine animals
  - rocks
  - sandbars
  - other water users: surfers, swimmers, other small craft
  - large waves
  - shore breaks
  - dumping waves

- techniques used in the event of a wipe out:
  - covering head with arms
  - wrestling or holding board tight when in prone position
  - pushing board clear with feet when in the water and when standing
  - waiting for turbulence to subside
  - floating to the surface in a horizontal position
- techniques used to return to shore without paddle board:
  - appropriate surf swimming strokes - defensive and aggressive
  - taking breaks when tired, floating and treading water
  - swimming or paddling diagonally across rips, when present
- actions that can be taken when unable to self rescue:
  - using recognised signals for assistance to contact others in water and lifeguards
  - remaining with paddle board and using as flotation device
  - floating and treading water.

Assessment Conditions

Skills must be demonstrated in a surfing environment which features the following:

- small breaking waves up to 0.5 metre
- beach breaks with sand bottom
- areas free from rips
- water depth of chest height or less.

The following resources must be available to replicate industry conditions of operation:

- first aid equipment
- communication equipment for emergency response
- rescue equipment.

Assessment must ensure use of:

- a group of participants with whom the individual interacts during stand up paddle boarding activities
- exposure protection surf wear suitable for conditions, and exposure suits as required
- stand up paddle boards and leashes
- paddles
- organisational safety and emergency response procedures for paddle boarding activities.

Assessors must satisfy the Standards for Registered Training Organisations requirements for assessors, and:

- have a collective period of at least three years' experience as a stand up paddle boarding instructor or guide, where they have applied the skills and knowledge covered in this unit of competency; the three years' experience can incorporate full and or part time experience.

SISOSUP003 Paddle a stand up board in sheltered coastal waters

Modification History

Not applicable.

Application

This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to paddle a stand up board as part of a group in sheltered coastal waters and according to planned downwinding courses. It requires the ability to self-rescue from a dismount and to rescue others in deep water.

This unit provides skills to paddle in sheltered coastal waters defined as estuaries, embayments, areas enclosed or partly enclosed by islands or a fringing reef; or areas of exposed coastline with surf but without overfalls and tidal races present.

Water would feature small waves up to 0.5 metre with no difficult landings. Paddlers at this level can paddle in moderate winds of 11 - 16 knots (Beaufort Scale).

It applies to leaders, guides or instructors, who use these skills when leading participants during stand up paddle boarding activities. Leadership skills are provided in complementary units.

This unit applies to any type of organisation that delivers outdoor recreation activities including commercial, not-for-profit and government organisations.

No occupational licensing, certification or specific legislative requirements apply to this unit at the time of publication.

Assessment Requirements for SISOSUP003 Paddle a stand up board in sheltered coastal waters

Modification History

Not applicable.

Performance Evidence

Evidence of the ability to complete tasks outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit in the context of the job role, and:

- complete three group stand up paddle boarding sessions
- during each session:
  - consistently follow safety procedures and safely negotiate hazards
  - consistently control direction of stand up paddle board forward, in reverse and when turning using appropriate stance, and this range of strokes:
    - forward and reverse paddle
    - forward and reverse sweeps
    - cross bow draw
    - emergency stop
  - effectively manoeuvre the stand up paddle board by combining strokes
- participate in simulations to:
  - re-establish a flipped paddle board and remount in deep water on two occasions
  - return to shore, swimming a maximum distance of 50 metres, when separated from paddle board on two occasions
  - complete two deep water rescues to assist a single paddler re-establish a flipped paddle board and remount
  - provide two tows using a towline with a quick release system.

Knowledge Evidence

Demonstrated knowledge required to complete the tasks outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit:

- organisational safety and emergency response procedures for stand up paddle boarding activities
- exposure protection swim wear suitable for paddle boarding activities:
  - types of swim wear and fabrics that protect against the effects of weather and water conditions including sun, temperatures and winds of different levels and extremes
  - features and uses of exposure suits of different styles and grades suited to different conditions

- types of footwear suitable for paddle boarding including specialist footwear and when it might be required in preference to bare feet
- features and functions of lifejackets suitable for sheltered coastal water conditions and how to fit and adjust these for comfort and safety
- types of stand up paddle boards suitable for use in sheltered coastal water conditions and:
  - location and function of different parts of the board
  - different construction materials, effects on performance, advantages and disadvantages
  - design features, handling characteristics and limitations: manoeuvrability, stability and speed
  - features and use of leashes
- types of paddles suitable for use with paddle boards in sheltered coastal water conditions, different construction materials and designs, effects on performance, advantages and disadvantages
- communication protocols for group paddle boarding activities to include:
  - calls
  - hand and paddle signals, including distress signals
  - whistles
- hydrological features of sheltered coastal waters including currents, waves and tides sufficient to understand the impacts on stand up paddle boarding activities
- typical hazards associated with paddling and swimming in sheltered coastal water conditions, and techniques used to safely negotiate these:
  - currents
  - built objects – piers, navigation markers
  - steep, slippery or rocky shores
  - sections of dark, deep or cold water
  - marine animals
  - boating traffic
- techniques used in sheltered coastal waters to launch, mount, land and dismount stand up paddle boards from shore
- a range of strokes used in sheltered coastal water conditions to direct paddle board forward, in reverse and when turning:
  - forward and reverse paddle
  - forward and reverse sweeps
  - cross bow draw strokes
  - emergency stop
- for each of the above strokes:
  - correct posture and feet position
  - correct hand placement on paddle and movement of top and bottom hand through the stroke
  - arm and body movement required to enable correct blade placement in water
  - correct paddle entry and exit points in relation to board and body position
  - appropriate paddle depth in water to achieve effective stroke

- correct paddle blade angle throughout stroke
- how to effectively manoeuvre paddle boards by combining strokes and which combinations are effective
- for self rescues:
  - techniques used to flip paddle board and remount in deep water
  - methods used to control and manoeuvre the paddle and board to rescue craft and shore
  - appropriate swimming strokes and techniques - defensive and aggressive
  - techniques for taking breaks when tired from swimming - floating and treading water
- for deep water rescues, the specific application of the following to sheltered coastal water conditions and stand up paddle boards:
  - raft up techniques
  - approach and flip technique
  - techniques for using a towline with a quick release system including appropriate knots and how to tie them
  - roles and responsibilities that can be allocated to team members and participants to effectively complete a rescue.

Assessment Conditions

Skills must be demonstrated in sheltered coastal waters which can be:

- estuaries
- embayments
- areas enclosed or partly enclosed by islands or a fringing reef
- areas of exposed coastline with surf but without overfalls and tidal races present.

The environment must feature the following:

- water with small waves up to 0.5 metre with no difficult landings
- ideally moderate winds of 11-16 knots (Beaufort Scale); winds could vary but warnings should not exceed moderate wind conditions.

The following resources must be available to replicate industry conditions of operation:

- first aid equipment
- communication equipment for emergency response.

Assessment must ensure use of:

- a group of participants with whom the individual interacts during stand up paddle boarding activities
- exposure protection swim wear suitable for conditions, and exposure suits as required
- when required by local regulations, Australian Standard, or equivalent, compliant lifejackets of a grade that meets maritime regulator requirements for the location

- pea-less whistles not affected by water
- stand up paddle boards and leashes
- paddles
- rescue equipment:
  - towlines
  - knives
- activity plans to include details of planned route
- template safety checklists
- organisational safety and emergency response procedures for paddle boarding activities.

Assessors must satisfy the Standards for Registered Training Organisations requirements for assessors, and:

- have a collective period of at least three years' experience as a stand up paddle boarding instructor or guide, where they have applied the skills and knowledge covered in this unit of competency; the three years' experience can incorporate full and or part time experience.

SISOSUP004 Lead stand up paddle boarding activities on inland flatwater

Modification History

Not applicable.

Application

This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to instruct or guide dependent participants during paddle boarding activities on flatwater areas according to predetermined plans. It covers the skills required to adjust activities according to prevailing conditions and participant capabilities.

It requires the ability to demonstrate and instruct stand up paddle boarding techniques applicable to flatwater conditions. To do this, instructors and guides must be proficient in paddle boarding skills which are covered by other units.

This unit applies to any type of organisation that delivers outdoor recreation activities including commercial, not-for-profit and government organisations.

It applies to instructors and guides who work independently using discretion and judgement to manage operational logistics and risk within predetermined guidelines.

When working at or close to base and assistance, they manage routine problems in consultation with relevant personnel. Where assistance is not immediately available, leaders use additional skills, covered by other units, to manage significant problems, e.g. rescues, injury or illness in remote locations.

No occupational licensing, certification or specific legislative requirements apply to this unit at the time of publication.

Assessment Requirements for SISOSUP004 Lead stand up paddle boarding activities on inland flatwater

Modification History

Not applicable.

Performance Evidence

Evidence of the ability to complete tasks outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit in the context of the job role, and:

- lead three stand up paddle boarding sessions for a group of participants according to predetermined session plans
- across the three sessions, collectively use two different demonstration and instruction techniques
- during each session consistently manage participant adherence to safety procedures
- after each session, facilitate a debrief with participants and participate in a team member debrief
- utilise options provided in Assessment Conditions to:
  - determine a total of three required activity modifications to suit prevailing conditions and participant capabilities and responses
  - respond to a total of three different immediate safety risks that have arisen during activities
  - respond to a total of two emergency situations and complete two incident reports
  - complete two reports on equipment faults.

Knowledge Evidence

Demonstrated knowledge required to complete the tasks outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit:

- organisational safety, emergency response and first aid procedures for stand up paddle boarding activity sessions
- format and inclusions of session plans
- a range of demonstration and instruction techniques applicable to recreational activities
- appropriateness of different demonstration and instruction techniques for a range of ages and capabilities
- the importance of verbalising instructions during demonstrations and providing reasons for doing things in a certain way
- techniques used to:
  - build group cohesion
  - motivate and encourage participants to keep them engaged and challenged
  - provide constructive feedback to participants

- key principles of group dynamics and techniques used to manage positive group dynamics
- signs, stages and levels of conflict within groups and techniques used to resolve at various stages of escalation
- specific to stand up paddle boarding activities in flatwater conditions:
  - roles and responsibilities of different activity leaders and support staff
  - communication protocols used between participants and leaders during activities
  - how characteristics of participants affect the choice of sessional activities and selection of equipment and exposure suits:
    - age, size and weight
    - current experience in paddle boarding and skill level
    - skill development needs
    - fitness level and physical capabilities
    - injuries and medical conditions
    - emotional, behavioural and intellectual ability or disability
  - a range of warm-up exercises
  - potential hazards and associated risks and safety procedures used to manage these
  - raft up techniques used for group demonstration and instruction.

Assessment Conditions

Skills must be demonstrated on inland flatwater areas which can be lakes, dams or slow moving rivers. The environment must feature the following:

- less than moderate wind conditions
- current flow is consistently documented as less than 1 knot.

An area for assessment should not be classified as flatwater if any of the following conditions are present:

- rapids of any grade
- surf of any size
- fetch greater than 1 nautical mile.

The following resources must be available to replicate industry conditions of operation:

- first aid equipment
- communication equipment for emergency response
- rescue equipment.

Assessment must ensure use of:

- a group of participants whom the individual instructs or guides
- real workplace situations, or simulated activities, or case study scenarios that test aspects of this unit that relate to:

- activity modifications for prevailing conditions and participant needs
- arising safety risks
- emergency situations
- equipment faults
- exposure protection swim wear suitable for conditions, and exposure suits as required
- pea-less whistles not affected by water
- stand up paddle boards and leashes
- paddles
- participant profiles to include:
  - age, size and weight
  - current experience in surfing and skill level
  - skill development needs
  - fitness level and physical capabilities
  - injuries and medical conditions
  - emotional, behavioural and intellectual ability or disability
- template:
  - session plans
  - safety checklists
  - participant informed consents
  - equipment fault reports
  - incident reports
- organisational safety, emergency response and first aid procedures for stand up paddle boarding activity sessions.

Assessors must satisfy the Standards for Registered Training Organisations requirements for assessors, and:

- have a collective period of at least three years' experience as a stand up paddle boarding instructor or guide, where they have applied the skills and knowledge covered in this unit of competency; the three years' experience can incorporate full and or part time experience.

Elements describe the essential outcomes

Performance criteria describe the performance needed to demonstrate achievement of the element.

1. Prepare session plans.
  - 1.1. Identify and evaluate participant needs, characteristics, and current paddle boarding skills.
  - 1.2. Determine activity objectives to meet identified participant needs.
  - 1.3. Develop session plans to include appropriate exercises for participants and their stage of skills acquisition.
2. Prepare equipment and participants.
  - 2.1. Select a suitable area for paddle boarding activities according to current conditions.
  - 2.2. Assess characteristics, condition and paddle boarding capability of participants, as they present, and obtain informed consent.
  - 2.3. Confirm participants have exposure protection swim wear appropriate for anticipated conditions.
  - 2.4. Select and set up equipment, exposure suits and lifejackets, as required, to match participants and prevailing conditions; complete safety checks.
  - 2.5. Check participants' own equipment and exposure suits, if provided, and confirm safe working condition.
  - 2.6. Direct and assist participants to fit and adjust equipment; exposure protection wear and lifejackets, as required; check comfort and safety of fit.
3. Brief participants and demonstrate stand up paddle boarding techniques applicable to sheltered coastal waters.
  - 3.1. Explain planned objectives; communicate instructions and information about activity in a manner appropriate to participants.
  - 3.2. Encourage participants to ask questions and seek advice before and during session.
  - 3.3. Inform participants of known and anticipated risks, safety procedures, safe behaviour, safe areas and boundaries.
  - 3.4. Advise participants of roles and responsibilities of activity leaders, and communication protocols to use during activity.
  - 3.5. Demonstrate and explain correct techniques appropriate for the activity.

- 3.6. Form a raft up of participants, as required, for demonstrations.
  - 3.7. Check and confirm participant ability to use and control equipment before activity commencement.
  - 3.8. Check matching of equipment and activities to participants and amend as required.
4. Lead paddle boarding activities in sheltered coastal waters.
  - 4.1. Prepare participants for activity using warm up exercises.
  - 4.2. Implement recreational instruction techniques to impart skills and knowledge for paddle boarding skills.
  - 4.3. Provide clear and accurate instructions and or demonstrations throughout the session.
  - 4.4. Monitor participant performance and provide directions, encouragement and corrective instruction to improve techniques.
  - 4.5. Facilitate effective group communication and interaction to maintain group control, engagement and safety.
  - 4.6. Implement required modifications to activity, location or route to ensure participant engagement and comfort, and completion within timelines.
5. Manage safety during paddle boarding activities in sheltered coastal waters.
  - 5.1. Monitor activity conditions and hazards, including signs of participant difficulty, to ensure safety and welfare.
  - 5.2. Monitor participant behaviour and adherence to safety procedures, adjust level of supervision and assertively correct breaches, as required.
  - 5.3. Respond immediately to adverse participant reactions and hazardous situations.
  - 5.4. Complete ongoing risk assessments to minimise risk of injury to participants and others.
  - 5.5. Amend activities if risk is unacceptable; cease activities when required.
  - 5.6. Respond to emergency situations according to organisational safety, emergency response and first aid procedures.
6. Complete post activity responsibilities.
  - 6.1. Debrief participants and encourage discussion on their technique and satisfaction with session.
  - 6.2. Notify relevant personnel of activity completion.
  - 6.3. Retrieve equipment, inspect for wear or breakage, tag faults and store in designated area.
  - 6.4. Document any equipment faults and incidents including injuries and near misses.
  - 6.5. Evaluate the activity through a team debrief and identify improvements for future activities.

Assessment Requirements for SISOSUP006 Lead stand up paddle boarding activities in sheltered coastal waters

Modification History

Not applicable.

Performance Evidence

Evidence of the ability to complete tasks outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit in the context of the job role, and:

- lead three stand up paddle boarding sessions for a group of participants according to predetermined session plans
- across the three sessions, collectively use two different demonstration and instruction techniques
- during each session consistently manage participant adherence to safety procedures
- after each session, facilitate a debrief with participants and participate in a team member debrief
- utilise options provided in Assessment Conditions to:
  - determine a total of three required activity modifications to suit prevailing conditions and participant capabilities and responses
  - respond to a total of three different immediate safety risks that have arisen during activities
  - respond to a total of two emergency situations and complete two incident reports
  - complete two reports on equipment faults.

Knowledge Evidence

Demonstrated knowledge required to complete the tasks outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit:

- organisational safety, emergency response and first aid procedures for stand up paddle boarding activity sessions
- format and inclusions of session plans
- a range of demonstration and instruction techniques applicable to recreational activities
- appropriateness of different demonstration and instruction techniques for a range of ages and capabilities
- the importance of verbalising instructions during demonstrations and providing reasons for doing things in a certain way
- techniques used to:
  - build group cohesion
  - motivate and encourage participants to keep them engaged and challenged
  - provide constructive feedback to participants

- key principles of group dynamics and techniques used to manage positive group dynamics
- signs, stages and levels of conflict within groups and techniques used to resolve at various stages of escalation
- specific to stand up paddle boarding activities in sheltered coastal waters:
  - roles and responsibilities of different activity leaders and support staff
  - communication protocols used between participants and leaders during activities
  - how characteristics of participants affect the choice of sessional activities and selection of equipment, exposure suits and lifejackets:
    - age, size and weight
    - current experience in paddle boarding and skill level
    - skill development needs
    - fitness level and physical capabilities
    - injuries and medical conditions
    - emotional, behavioural and intellectual ability or disability
  - a range of warm-up exercises
  - potential hazards and associated risks and safety procedures used to manage these
  - raft up techniques used for group demonstration and instruction.

Assessment Conditions

Skills must be demonstrated in sheltered coastal waters which can be:

- estuaries
- embayments
- areas enclosed or partly enclosed by islands or a fringing reef
- areas of exposed coastline with surf but without overfalls and tidal races present.

The environment must feature the following:

- water with swell up to 0.5 metre with no difficult landings
- ideally moderate winds of 11-16 knots (Beaufort Scale); winds could vary but warnings should not exceed moderate wind conditions.

The following resources must be available to replicate industry conditions of operation:

- first aid equipment
- communication equipment for emergency response
- rescue equipment.

Assessment must ensure use of:

- a group of participants whom the individual instructs or guides
- real workplace situations, or simulated activities, or case study scenarios that test aspects of this unit that relate to:

- activity modifications for prevailing conditions and participant needs
- arising safety risks
- emergency situations
- equipment faults
- exposure protection swim wear suitable for conditions, and exposure suits as require
- when required by local regulations, Australian Standard, or equivalent, compliant lifejackets of a grade that meets maritime regulator requirements for the location
- pea-less whistles not affected by water
- stand up paddle boards and leashes
- paddles
- participant profiles to include:
  - age, size and weight
  - current experience in surfing and skill level
  - skill development needs
  - fitness level and physical capabilities
  - injuries and medical conditions
  - emotional, behavioural and intellectual ability or disability
- template:
  - session plans
  - safety checklists
  - participant informed consents
  - equipment fault reports
  - incident reports
- organisational safety, emergency response and first aid procedures for stand up paddle boarding activity sessions.

stand up paddle boarding activity sessions

Assessors must satisfy the Standards for Registered Training Organisations requirements for assessors, and:

- have a collective period of at least three years' experience as a stand up paddle boarding instructor or guide, where they have applied the skills and knowledge covered in this unit of competency; the three years' experience can incorporate full and or part time experience.

SISOWIN001 Windsurf in smooth water and light wind conditions

Modification History

Not applicable.

Application

This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to sail a sailboard in light wind conditions within smooth waters using fundamental manoeuvres. It requires the ability to launch, land and sail, steer on all points of sail, to tack and gybe and to self rescue.

This unit provides the skills to windsurf in smooth water conditions found within rivers, creeks, lakes, inlets, and waters within breakwaters, revetments or enclosed coastal bays. Smooth water could feature small formed rippled wavelets which do not break but can include no more than small breaking white capping waves up to 0.5 metre. Riders at this level can sail boards in light winds up to 10 knots (Beaufort Scale).

It applies to leaders, guides or instructors, who use these skills when leading participants during windsurfing activities. Leadership skills are provided in complementary units. The unit can also apply to assistants and support staff.

This unit applies to any type of organisation that delivers outdoor recreation activities including commercial, not-for-profit and government organisations.

Recreational boating is regulated by specific laws in each Australian state and territory with variable rules. General and specific waterway rules apply to the operation of sailboards. All training and assessment activities must comply with the local state or territory requirements. No occupational licensing or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of publication.

Assessment Requirements for SISOWIN001 Windsurf in smooth water and light wind conditions

Modification History

Not applicable.

Performance Evidence

Evidence of the ability to complete tasks outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit in the context of the job role, and:

- complete three group windsurfing sessions
- during each session consistently:
  - follow safety procedures and safely negotiate hazards
  - follow waterway rules and use etiquette applicable to windsurfing
  - utilise effective techniques to:
    - rig sailboards to suit personal requirements
    - launch and land sailboards under control
    - power, steer and turn sailboards under control on a marked course
- participate in simulations to complete three self rescues.

Knowledge Evidence

Demonstrated knowledge required to complete the tasks outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit:

- organisational safety and emergency response procedures for windsurfing activities
- exposure protection swim wear suitable for windsurfing activities:
  - types of swim wear and fabrics that protect against the effects of weather and water conditions including sun, temperatures and winds of different levels
  - features and uses of exposure suits, booties and gloves of different styles and grades suited to different conditions
- features and functions of lifejackets suitable for smooth water conditions and how to fit and adjust these for comfort and safety
- types of sailboards suitable for use in smooth water conditions and:
  - location and function of different parts of the sailboard
  - different construction materials, effects on performance, advantages and disadvantages
  - design features, handling characteristics and limitations: manoeuvrability, stability and speed
- communication protocols for windsurfing activities to include:
  - calls
  - hand signals

- international distress signals
- the impact of the following on selection of windsurfing location, and on launching, landing and manoeuvring sailboards:
  - tides, currents, waves and rips
  - on, cross, and off shore winds
- the meaning of the following terminology used for windsurfing:
  - port
  - starboard
  - windward, upwind
  - leeward, downwind
  - cross wind
  - luffing up
  - bearing away
- safe manual handling techniques used to lift and carry sailboards
- equipment features and techniques used to secure sailboards for transportation
- techniques and knots used to rig windsurf sails, correct tensions, boom height and how to adjust to suit personal requirements
- techniques used to climb on, launch, land and climb off sailboards from shore
- fundamental windsurfing manoeuvres and techniques for tacking and gybing
- points of sail and all associated terminology
- the "no go zone" and how to get upwind
- principle of tacking upwind and gybing downwind
- typical hazards associated with windsurfing, and techniques used to safely negotiate these:
  - currents
  - rips
  - built objects – piers, navigation markers
  - steep, slippery or rocky shores
  - sections of dark, deep or cold water
  - marine animals
  - boating traffic
- for self rescues:
  - reasons why a self rescue may be required:
    - lack of wind or wind strength beyond personal limitations
    - equipment failure
    - injury
  - methods used to reboard sailboard in deep water
  - methods used to dismantle sail rig and secure to sailboard
  - methods used to paddle the board prone back to shore
- rules specific to the operation of sailboards and specific to the local state or territory:
  - give way rules – passing, crossing and overtaking powered and non-powered vessels

- distance limitations ("distance off") – rules for swimmers, designated swimming zones, dive flags, unpowered and powered vessels stationary or underway, moored or anchored vessels, built structures (bridges, jetties, navigation markers)
- prohibited local areas – also called "exclusion" and "no go zones"
- incident reporting requirements including those for verbal and written reports
- life jacket requirements for the location
- etiquette applicable to windsurfing, that used between windsurfers and with other users.

Assessment Conditions

Skills must be demonstrated in smooth water conditions which can be within rivers, creeks, lakes, inlets, and waters within breakwaters, revetments or enclosed coastal bays.

The environment must feature the following:

- smooth water defined as water which features small formed rippled wavelets which do not break, or no more than small breaking white capping waves up to 0.5 metre
- ideally light winds up to 10 knots (Beaufort Scale); winds could vary but warnings should not exceed light wind conditions.

The following resources must be available to replicate industry conditions of operation:

- first aid equipment
- communication equipment for emergency response
- rescue equipment.

Assessment must ensure use of:

- a group of participants with whom the individual interacts during windsurfing activities
- exposure protection swim wear suitable for conditions, and exposure suits as required
- Australian Standard, or equivalent, compliant lifejackets of a grade that meets maritime regulator requirements
- sailboards suitable for use in smooth water and light wind conditions and for fundamental windsurfing
- ropes and tie down straps for transportation
- information on tides, depths, currents and other expected water conditions
- organisational safety and emergency response procedures for windsurfing activities.

Assessors must satisfy the Standards for Registered Training Organisations requirements for assessors, and:

- have a collective period of at least three years' experience as a windsurfing leader, guide or instructor, where they have applied the skills and knowledge covered in this unit of competency ; the three years' experience can incorporate full and or part time experience.

SISOWIN002 Lead windsurfing activities in smooth water and light wind conditions

Modification History

Not applicable.

Application

This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to lead and supervise dependent participants during windsurfing activities in smooth water conditions according to predetermined activity plans which might be self-developed or developed by others. It covers the skills required to adjust activities according to prevailing conditions and participant capabilities.

It requires the ability to demonstrate and instruct windsurfing techniques applicable to smooth water and light wind conditions. To do this, leaders must be proficient in windsurfing skills which are covered by other units.

This unit applies to any type of organisation that delivers outdoor recreation activities including commercial, not-for-profit and government organisations.

It applies to leaders who work independently using discretion and judgement to manage operational logistics and risk within predetermined guidelines.

When working at or close to base and assistance, they manage routine problems in consultation with relevant personnel. Where assistance is not immediately available, leaders use additional skills, covered by other units, to manage significant problems, e.g. rescues, injury or illness in remote locations.

No occupational licensing, certification or specific legislative requirements apply to this unit at the time of publication.

- equestrian sport discipline communication systems and terminology.

Assessment Conditions

Skills must be demonstrated in:

- a community based sport environment in equestrian
- a fenced horse riding arena with a safe surface for the equestrian sport discipline exercises.

Horse matching prior to all assessments involving horse interaction is essential. Assessors must:

- complete, participate in or validate a risk assessment of both the candidate and participant learners' characteristics and level of horse handling and riding skills
- match, or validate the matching of, horses of suitable history, size and temperament to both the candidate and participant learners to ensure that participant and horse combination is safe.

Assessment must ensure access to:

- human and equine first aid equipment
- drinking water
- communication equipment for emergency response
- organisational safety, emergency response and first aid procedures for equestrian coaching
- Equestrian Australia rules, regulations and policies applicable to coaching unofficial local competition participants.

Assessment must ensure use of:

- tack:
  - saddles
  - saddle cloths
  - bridles
  - reins
  - bits
  - stirrups with safety features
- personal protective equipment:

- riding boots
- gloves
- Australian Standard or equivalent-compliant helmets
- Australian Standard-compliant back protectors
- equestrian sport discipline equipment
- participant profiles:
  - age, size and weight
  - current horse riding experience and skill level relevant to the equestrian sport discipline
  - skill development needs
  - fitness level and physical capabilities
  - injuries and medical conditions
- compliant and manageable horses matched to participants as above, and educated in the equestrian sport discipline
- moderately experienced participants to be coached
- equestrian sport discipline officials and support staff.

Assessors must satisfy the Standards for Registered Training Organisations requirements for assessors, and:

- hold a qualification or Statement of Attainment which includes this unit of competency, SISSEQS002 Coach unofficial local competition participants in equestrian, or equivalent
- have at least three years' experience in a role involving an equestrian sport discipline, and:
- hold accreditation offered by Equestrian Australia as the National Sporting Organisation, or its successor, relevant to assessing instructional skills covered by this unit.

SISSEQS003 Coach official national competition participants in equestrian

Modification History

Not applicable.

Application

This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to coach participants, who can already ride, to participate in official national competitions in an equestrian sport discipline. This unit includes planning, preparing, conducting and reviewing individual and group sessions.

Equestrian sport disciplines must be registered with Equestrian Australia and can include, but are not limited to, dressage, driving, eventing, jumping, para-equestrian, vaulting, show horse, endurance and reining.

This unit applies to individuals working in community based coaching roles in the Australian sport industry as recognised by Equestrian Australia. This includes individuals working and volunteering in equestrian clubs and centres.

This unit applies to coaches who coach participants in preparation for equestrian events and competitions. To do this, coaches must be proficient horse riders or competitors in the chosen equestrian sport discipline.

Specific industry accreditation requirements apply to equestrian coaching accreditation and information should be obtained from Equestrian Australia.

Assessment Requirements for SISSVOL001 Coach volleyball participants up to an intermediate level

Modification History

Not applicable.

Performance Evidence

Evidence of the ability to complete tasks outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit in the context of the job role, and:

- deliver coaching in volleyball to participants up to an intermediate level on three occasions for a duration of at least 30 minutes each.

Knowledge Evidence

Demonstrated knowledge required to complete the tasks outlined in the elements and performance criteria of this unit:

- organisational policies and procedures applicable to coaching volleyball participants up to an intermediate level
- tactical and technical fundamentals of volleyball for participants up to an intermediate level:
  - lunging
  - jumping
  - diving
  - spiking
  - setting
  - passing
  - serving
  - blocking
  - indoor and beach aspects
- analysis of movement for volleyball participants up to an intermediate level
- modifying activities for volleyball participants up to an intermediate level:
  - regress activities
  - progress activities
- organisational layout of volleyball activities
- types of competitions and pathways for volleyball participants up to an intermediate level
- volleyball rules, regulations and policies applicable to coaching participants up to an intermediate level
- roles and responsibilities of volleyball coaches and officials applicable to participants up to an intermediate level

- volleyball session planning for participants up to an intermediate level:
  - session objectives
  - progression and regression activities and modified games
  - activities inclusive of all participants
  - designing activities that require participants to think and make meaningful decisions about volleyball situations
  - linking sessions to develop and progress skills
  - group organisation
- volleyball equipment and resources:
  - selection
  - safe set-up and layout
  - safe condition
  - safe use
- volleyball safe participation requirements for participants up to an intermediate level:
  - obeying the rules
  - use of protective equipment
  - hydration
- contemporary coaching practices
- coaching communication styles:
  - direct instruction
  - indirect instruction
  - demonstration
  - position of coach
  - problem solving
  - active listening
  - open and closed questions
  - non verbal communication
  - giving and receiving feedback
  - tone and level of voice
  - terminology and language
- managing poor behaviour:
  - establishing behaviour standards
  - promoting cooperation and good relationships
  - common causes of poor behaviour of participants up to an intermediate level
- methods of observation and feedback during volleyball sessions with participants up to an intermediate level:
  - how, what and when to observe
  - timing of feedback
- volleyball session review processes
- methods for self-reflection.

Assessment Conditions

Skills must be demonstrated in:

- a community based sport environment in volleyball. This can be a workplace or simulated environment.

Assessment must ensure access to:

- first aid kit
- drinking water
- volleyball facilities, equipment and training aids:
  - volleyball court
  - nets
  - volleyballs
  - teaching and coaching tools
  - video equipment
  - sports science testing equipment
  - wickets hats
  - spiking frame
- organisational safety, emergency response and first aid procedures for volleyball
- Volleyball Australia rules, regulations and policies applicable to coaching participants up to an intermediate level.

Assessment must ensure use of:

session plan template

- volleyball participants up to an intermediate level to be coached.

Elements describe the essential outcomes

1. Assess participant ability to meet the demands of high level performance.

PERFORMANCE CRITERIA

Performance criteria describe the performance needed to demonstrate achievement of the element.

- 1.1. Identify requirements of high level performance for participant physical activity.
- 1.2. Use approved assessment methods appropriate to demands of participation in the physical activity to assess participant fitness and skill levels.
- 1.3. Measure, record and evaluate data obtained from

- assessment activities against current identified demands of participation.
- 1.4. Establish high performance participant aims and priorities for the training program.
  - 1.5. Establish agreed program needs and objectives.
2. Plan a training program to meet participant requirements.
    - 2.1. Investigate current national and international trends and innovations in high performance training program design.
    - 2.2. Implement principles of high performance training program design to meet identified needs of participant and high performance objectives of the physical activity.
    - 2.3. Consider competition requirements and align competition opportunities within training program.
    - 2.4. Incorporate cross-training opportunities where appropriate to meet program objectives.
    - 2.5. Incorporate principles of recovery into training program design.
    - 2.6. Identify and select equipment and resource requirements for each stage of the program.
    - 2.7. Include evaluation methods to monitor training program.
    - 2.8. Schedule and document training program according to organisational policies and procedures.
  3. Implement the training program.
    - 3.1. Explain and demonstrate safe performance of exercises and activities.
    - 3.2. Explain and demonstrate safe use of equipment according to manufacturer instructions.
    - 3.3. Use motivation techniques to enhance participant performance.
  4. Monitor and adjust the training program.
    - 4.1. Monitor and modify participant progress in consultation with support staff.
    - 4.2. Identify errors, potential problems and areas for improvement in performance and communicate these to participant.
    - 4.3. Monitor skill performance, physical performance and participant wellbeing throughout training program and adapt methods and instructional styles to maximise outcomes.
    - 4.4. Adjust sessions and training program according to results of monitoring.
    - 4.5. Provide feedback to participants to improve performance.
    - 4.6. Evaluate training program according to methods outlined in plan and in consultation with participant and support

- staff.
- 4.7. Identify symptoms of negative adaptation and refer participants with symptoms of negative adaptation to relevant support staff.
5. Manage competitive and performance events during the program.
- 5.1. Address relevant competitive and performance strategies, tactics and support needs.
- 5.2. Continually monitor participant condition throughout competition events to determine factors that affect performance.
- 5.3. Implement changes according to results of monitoring.

ACMEQU202 Handle horses safely

Modification History

Release	Comments
Release 1	This version released with ACM Animal Care and Management Training Package Version 1.0.

Application

This unit of competency describes the skills and knowledge required to identify, safely catch, control and handle calm, consistent and obedient horses educated for the relevant activity. It covers knowledge of potential risks working with and around horses and following industry guidelines and procedures to ensure the welfare and safety of the individual, other workers and the horse.

The unit applies to individuals who have no experience, limited experience or no recent experience working in the relevant horse industry sector. They undertake defined routine activities under supervision and have limited responsibility for their own work. Working environments may include stables, paddocks, yards, tracks, exercise arenas and public areas.

No licensing or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of publication, except for the racing industry, where requirements vary between states and territories. Users working in the racing industry are advised to contact the relevant Principal Racing Authority for advice on current requirements.

Work health and safety and animal welfare legislation relevant to interacting with horses applies to workers in this industry. Requirements vary between industry sectors and state/territory jurisdictions. Users are advised to check with the relevant authority for specific requirements.

NOTE: The terms 'occupational health and safety' (OHS) and 'work health and safety' (WHS) generally have the same meaning in the workplace. In jurisdictions where the national model WHS legislation has not been implemented, RTOs must contextualise the unit of competency by referring to current OHS legislative requirements.

Pre-requisite Unit

Assessment Requirements for ACMEQU202 Handle horses safely

Modification History

Release	Comments
Release 1	This version released with ACM Animal Care and Management Training Package Version 1.0.

Performance Evidence

An individual demonstrating competency in this unit must satisfy all of the elements and performance criteria of this unit.

There must be evidence that the individual safely handled at least three different calm, consistent and obedient horses educated for the activity being performed including:

- carrying out a basic risk assessment prior to each activity, including observing and identifying horse body language
- communicating clearly with supervisor, including raising safety risks or concerns
- approaching, catching, controlling, leading, standing and tying up horses safely in at least one public space and one confined space, under supervision, including:
  - following work health and safety (WHS) procedures in the context of own work
  - applying safe horse handling techniques according to animal welfare requirements
  - fitting and correctly using horse handling gear and personal protective equipment (PPE)
- loading and unloading horses to a horse transport vehicle under supervision in a calm and humane manner.

Knowledge Evidence

An individual must be able to demonstrate the knowledge required to perform the tasks outlined in the elements and performance criteria of this unit. This includes knowledge of:

- common features of a horse, including points, colour, markings, gender, and common breeds
- basic characteristics of common horse behaviour and social traits
- features of horse body language
- communication protocols with supervisor, and procedures within the work environment
- potential hazards and risks when dealing with horses in open and confined spaces
- common types of injuries sustained by horses, handlers and others during handling activities
- safe horse handling zones

- purpose and use of PPE and gear for handling horses
- features of defective equipment and the implications to safety
- quick release knots and methods of securing horses
- types of horse transport and common loading configurations
- difficult situations that may occur when loading and unloading horses and procedures for dealing with difficulties.

Assessment Conditions

Assessment of skills must take place under the following conditions:

- physical conditions:
  - a workplace or an environment that accurately represents workplace conditions, including open and confined spaces in suitable environments
- resources, equipment and materials:
  - various calm, consistent and obedient horses educated for the activity and assessed as suitable for the experience and skill of the individual
  - appropriate tack for individual, horse and activity
  - horse transport vehicle
  - PPE that is appropriate for activity and correctly fitted for individual
  - other people and horses in the vicinity of the assessment activity
- specifications:
  - work instructions
- relationships with others:
  - supervisor.

Training and assessment strategies must show evidence of the use of guidance provided in the Companion Volume: User Guide: Safety in Equine Training.

Assessors of this unit must satisfy the requirements for assessors in applicable vocational education and training legislation, frameworks and/or standards.

Assessment Requirements for ACMEQU205 Apply knowledge of horse behaviour

Modification History

Release	Comments
Release 1	This version released with ACM Animal Care and Management Training Package Version 1.0.

Performance Evidence

An individual demonstrating competency in this unit must satisfy all of the elements and performance criteria of this unit.

There must be evidence that the individual has:

- observed and interpreted horse behaviour and body language of at least three different horses on separate occasions
- identified hazards and determined how to minimise risk to self and others when interacting with horses in at least three different workplace areas, environments or scenarios.

Knowledge Evidence

An individual must be able to demonstrate the knowledge required to perform the tasks outlined in the elements and performance criteria of this unit. This includes knowledge of:

- features of horse instinct and behaviour, including:
  - social organisation, need for space and companions
  - attachment, separation anxiety
  - flight and fear responses, arousal
- features of horse senses, including vision, touch, smell, hearing and vocalisation
- how to read horse body language, including posture and body position, facial features, ears, legs and tail
- how to read horse body language to identify:
  - flight response
  - threatened or defensive behaviour
  - stress, agitation or unsettled behaviour
- situations where horse behaviour may cause harm to handlers or other horses, including:
  - approaching from a horse's blind spot
  - around other horses

- leading through gateways or restricted spaces
- safe handling zones when interacting with horses
- basic features of how horses learn:
  - cues
  - repetition and reward
  - exposure to new situations and activities
- basic handling and/or riding cues that assist in the control of horses
- types of rewards used for horses, including pressure release, food, scratch and rub, and rest
- potential hazards and risks associated with interacting with horses
- strategies to minimise and control common risks associated with interacting with horses.

Assessment Conditions

Assessment of skills must take place under the following conditions:

- physical conditions:
  - a safe workplace or an environment that accurately represents workplace conditions
- resources, equipment and materials:
  - opportunities to observe and interpret live horses displaying different behavioural states and body language in different environments.

Training and assessment strategies must show evidence of the use of guidance provided in the Companion Volume: User Guide: Safety in Equine Training.

Assessors of this unit must satisfy the requirements for assessors in applicable vocational education and training legislation, frameworks and/or standards.

Performance Evidence

An individual demonstrating competency in this unit must satisfy all of the elements and performance criteria of this unit.

There must be evidence that the individual lunged at least three calm, consistent and obedient horses that have been educated to lunge, under supervision, including:

- carrying out basic risk assessments when preparing to lunge horses:
  - identifying hazards and risks in horse lungeing environment
  - controlling risks within own role and control
- monitoring basic horse health and welfare related to lunge exercise and reporting of abnormalities to supervisor
- selecting and fitting lunge gear to horses as directed
- using and caring for gear and equipment used for lungeing, including personal protective equipment (PPE)
- performing pre- and post-exercise lunge procedures according to stable procedures
- using horse lungeing techniques, including:
  - single lunge rein
  - lunge whip
- controlling horse during walk, trot and canter in both directions.

Knowledge Evidence

An individual must be able to demonstrate the knowledge required to perform the tasks outlined in the elements and performance criteria of this unit. This includes knowledge of:

- basic horse pre- and post-lunge exercise care procedures
- common horse behaviour and management options related to lungeing
- risks associated with working with horses on the lunge
- types and indicators of horse injury related to lungeing
- horse lungeing techniques and equipment
- safe horse handling techniques and zones when lungeing.

Assessment Conditions

Assessment of skills must take place under the following conditions:

- physical conditions:
  - a workplace riding yard or arena, or an environment that accurately represents workplace conditions
- resources, equipment and materials:
  - various calm, consistent and obedient horses, educated to lunge and assessed as suitable for the experience and skill of the individual
  - appropriate tack for individual, horse and lungeing activities
  - correctly fitted PPE applicable to lungeing activity for the individual.

Training and assessment strategies must show evidence of the use of guidance provided in the Companion Volume: User Guide: Safety in Equine Training.

Assessors of this unit must satisfy the requirements for assessors in applicable vocational education and training legislation, frameworks and/or standards.

ACMEQU301 Introduce horses to lunge exercise

Modification History

Release	Comments

Application

This unit of competency describes the skills and knowledge required to educate a horse for lunging exercise by introducing techniques, routines and gear, and voice commands and signals used to control and direct a horse to lunge calmly. It includes understanding the potential risks associated with interacting with horses, and the application of industry guidelines and procedures to ensure the welfare and safety of the individual and the horse.

The unit applies to individuals who have moderate experience in handling horses to be able to lunge a suitably educated, compliant and manageable horse in working environments that include round yards and fenced exercise arenas in a broad range of horse industry sectors. They undertake work in a range of known contexts; work under broad direction; take responsibility for own work, and use discretion and judgement in the selection and use of available resources.

No licensing or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of publication, except for the racing industry, where requirements vary between states and territories. Users working in the racing industry are advised to contact the relevant Principal Racing Authority for advice on current requirements.

Work health and safety and animal welfare legislation relevant to interacting with horses applies to workers in this industry. Requirements vary between industry sectors and state/territory jurisdictions. Users are advised to check with the relevant authority for specific requirements.

NOTE: The terms 'occupational health and safety' (OHS) and 'work health and safety' (WHS) generally have the same meaning in the workplace. In jurisdictions where the national model WHS legislation has not been implemented, RTOs must contextualise the unit of competency by referring to current OHS legislative requirements.

Pre-requisite Unit

Prerequisite unit of competency for this unit is:

- ACMEQU210 Lunge educated horses.

Note the following chain of prerequisites that also applies to this unit.

Assessment Requirements for ACMEQU301 Introduce horses to lunge exercise

Modification History

Release	Comments
Release 1	This version released with ACM Animal Care and Management Training Package Version 1.0.

Performance Evidence

An individual demonstrating competency must satisfy all the elements and performance criteria of this unit.

There must be evidence that the individual has introduced at least two compliant and manageable horses to lungeing, including:

- identifying risks associated with lungeing horses
- selecting, fitting and introducing lungeing gear to horses
- controlling and positioning the horse during walk, trot and canter:
  - in both directions whilst safely adjusting lunge lead and whip position
  - using lunge whip and handler body position to encourage inexperienced horses to start, stop and follow the track during lunge exercise
  - using voice to control tempo and speed of inexperienced horses during lungeing exercise
  - selecting and performing lungeing techniques that encourage inexperienced horses to maintain speed, tempo, gait and position on the track
- effectively communicating with supervisor, including raising issues of concern related to lunge exercise
- monitoring basic horse health and welfare during lunge exercise and reporting abnormalities to supervisor
- applying correct care of horse and equipment after lungeing.

Knowledge Evidence

An individual must be able to demonstrate the knowledge required to perform the tasks outlined in the elements and performance criteria of this unit. This includes knowledge of:

- safe horse handling techniques, zones and positioning techniques to encourage inexperienced horses to lunge
- types and purpose of personal protective equipment (PPE) suitable for lunge exercise
- features of a safe work area to lunge horses

- techniques for introducing inexperienced horses to lungeing
- horse learning theory that can be applied to lungeing activities
- purpose and reasons for lungeing horses
- types, purpose, correct fit and use of horse lungeing gear
- common horse behaviour, social traits, vices and responses related to lungeing horses
- potential hazards and risks associated with lungeing horses:
  - horse behaviour
  - other horses in vicinity
  - handler skills and techniques
  - surface variations
  - area not fenced or confined
- symptoms and signs of illness and injury during and after lungeing
- styles of lunge exercise and exercise routines
- types of working gear required for lungeing horses
- types of injury that may be sustained during lunge exercise
- animal welfare practices in relation to lunge exercise.

Assessment Conditions

Assessment of skills must take place under the following conditions:

- physical conditions:
  - a workplace fenced arena or round yard, or an environment that accurately represents workplace conditions
- resources, equipment and materials:
  - various compliant and manageable horses (inexperienced in lungeing) assessed as suitable for the experience and skill of the individual
  - appropriate tack for individual, horse and lungeing activities
  - PPE, correctly fitted and applicable to lungeing exercise, for the individual.

Training and assessment strategies must show evidence of the use of guidance provided in the Companion Volume: User Guide: Safety in Equine Training.

Assessors of this unit must satisfy the requirements for assessors in applicable vocational education and training legislation, frameworks and/or standards.

Assessment Requirements for ACMHBR310 Prevent and treat equine injury and disease

Modification History

Release	Comments
Release 1	This version released with ACM Animal Care and Management Training Package Version 1.0.

Performance Evidence

An individual demonstrating competency in this unit must satisfy all of the elements and performance criteria of this unit.

There must be evidence that the individual has implemented disease or injury prevention measures including performing each of the following points at least once:

- performing stable hygiene practices procedures
- disease and ailment prevention procedures
- quarantine procedures.

There must also be evidence that the individual has treated equine injury or disease for at least two horses including:

- assessing and recording vital signs of horses, including temperature, pulse, respiration and capillary refill
- handling and restraining horses for observation and treatment
- detecting and reporting signs of common ailments, ill health and injury
- treating equine injury and disease according to instructions.

When performing all of the above points there must be evidence that the individual has:

- assessed and controlled risks handling horses and in work area
- handled horses safely and ethically in a firm but calm, gentle and unhurried manner
- completed horse health and medication records in accordance with requirements.

Knowledge Evidence

An individual must be able to demonstrate the knowledge required to perform the tasks outlined in the elements and performance criteria of this unit. This includes knowledge of:

- types and signs of common horse injuries
- types and signs of common ailments that affect horses

- indicators that can be used to assess horse health
- signs and symptoms of:
  - abnormal or depressed appetite
  - life threatening conditions
- range of treatments that must be applied under veterinary supervision
- common horse behavioural problems
- safe and ethical horse handling techniques and restraints
- animal health and welfare principles and practices
- hygiene and environmental practices relevant to maintaining healthy horse environments
- work health and safety practices:
  - assessing and controlling risks
  - use of personal protective equipment
  - safe horse handling techniques
  - safe areas to carry out procedures.

Assessment Conditions

Assessment of skills must take place under the following conditions:

- physical conditions:
  - a workplace or an environment that accurately represents workplace conditions
- resources, equipment and materials:
  - various compliant and manageable horses assessed as suitable for the experience and skill of the individual
  - materials and equipment for treating horses
  - appropriate tack for individual, horse and activity
  - personal protective equipment (PPE) correctly fitted and applicable to activity for the individual
- specifications:
  - work instructions and treatment and prevention program for individual horses
  - workplace recording or reporting forms.

Training and assessment strategies must show evidence of the use of guidance provided in the Companion Volume: User Guide: Safety in Equine Training.

Assessors of this unit must satisfy the requirements for assessors in applicable vocational education and training legislation, frameworks and/or standards.

ACMPHR401 Interpret equine behaviour

Modification History

Release	Comments

Application

This unit of competency covers the skills and knowledge required to interpret and apply knowledge of equine ethology, cognition and learning and apply these to ensure that the behavioural needs and welfare of horses are met while maintaining a safe working environment for staff and clients.

The unit applies to individuals who have an independent or management role in the performance horse industry, and require a detailed understanding of the behavioural and ethological needs of horses to make management decisions for housing, transporting and/or training horses. It applies to all horse breeds, ages and intended uses and environments, including breeding operations, riding schools, training establishments, trail riding centres and agistment centres.

No occupational licensing or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of publication.

Work health and safety and animal welfare legislation relevant to interacting with horses applies to workers in this industry. Requirements vary between industry sectors and state/territory jurisdictions. Users are advised to check with the relevant authority for specific requirements.

NOTE: The terms 'occupational health and safety' (OHS) and 'work health and safety' (WHS) generally have the same meaning in the workplace. ## Performance Evidence

An individual demonstrating competency must satisfy all the elements and performance criteria of this unit.

There must be evidence that, on at least one occasion, the individual has:

- researched current information about:
  - equine cognition, ethology, behaviour and learning
  - current regulations and codes of practice relating to horse welfare and behaviour and work health and safety (WHS)
- accurately interpreted equine behaviour including body language, vocalisation, locomotory behaviour and interactions with other horses
- developed and implemented a strategy or plan to:
  - communicate information about the behavioural problems of individual horses to workers and clients
  - apply knowledge of equine behaviour and research findings to manage horse handling, training, transport, housing and/or husbandry
  - apply knowledge of equine cognition and learning to modify the behaviour of a horse to perform a specific task
  - apply knowledge of equine behaviour, animal welfare and WHS practices and legislative requirements to staff policies and procedures and work operations.

ACMPHR402 Manage horses to meet performance horse sport requirements

Modification History

Release	Comments

Application

This unit of competency covers the skills and knowledge required to plan for and participate in various performance horse sports. It includes complying with sport rules and regulations; presenting horses in a range of disciplines; undertaking competition day duties; participating in industry inquiries, protests and appeals; and managing related documentation and records.

The unit applies to individuals with moderate horse handling skills who are responsible for the management of competition and performance horses competing in recognised equestrian competitions. Equestrian performances range from Olympic sports of dressage, show jumping and evening, to other sports including camp drafting, cutting, showing, polocrosse, pony club competitions, endurance riding, western disciplines, and working equitation.

No occupational licensing or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of publication.

Work health and safety and animal welfare legislation relevant to interacting with horses applies to workers in this industry. Requirements vary between industry sectors and state/territory jurisdictions. Users are advised to check with the relevant authority for specific requirements.

NOTE: The terms 'occupational health and safety' (OHS) and 'work health and safety' (WHS) generally have the same meaning in the workplace. # Assessment Requirements for ACMPHR402 Manage horses to meet performance horse sport requirements

Modification History

Release	Comments

Performance Evidence

An individual demonstrating competency in this unit must satisfy all of the elements and performance criteria of this unit.

There must be evidence that the individual has planned, organised and participated in at least one performance horse sport event, involving fit competition horses, including:

- researching, interpreting and complying with competition and sport rules, regulations and requirements, horse breed characteristics, equipment, medication and attire rules
- assessing and controlling risks associated with horse sport activity within own role and work area
- managing health and welfare of performance horse before, during and after competitions, including during transport
- handling horses safely and humanely according to industry practices and legislative requirements for:
  - work health and safety (WHS)
  - animal welfare
  - biosecurity
  - sustainability
- organising equipment and using tack humanely and safely according to relevant sport regulations
- managing horse presentation for competition, including preparing and turning out individual horses to meet sport-specific requirements
- performing the competition day duties of a trainer and/or competitor
- participating in protests, inquiries and appeals.

Knowledge Evidence

An individual must be able to demonstrate the knowledge required to perform the tasks outlined in the elements and performance criteria of this unit. This includes knowledge of:

- horse sports and performance opportunities relevant to the specific breed, business or requirements of clients
- the timing, qualification requirements and locations of competition opportunities relevant to business goals or client requirements
- sport and breed governing bodies, structure and function relevant to competition requirements, including:
  - eligibility to compete
  - breed standards
  - qualification requirements
  - roles of officials and judges
  - disciplinary, protest and appeal procedures
- details of competition rules and regulations relevant to the sport or discipline, including:
  - tack and equipment
  - withholding periods
  - administration of medication
  - presentation and dress standards
  - horse requirements
- horse breeds and performance characteristics
- criteria for determining horse suitability for specific activity, including indicators of when the horse is not fit for current or further competition
- horse health and welfare standards and procedures
- equine transport options and the effect of transport on equine health and welfare
- sports psychology principles relevant to sport competition
- key requirements of current standards, policies and procedures, and legislation relevant to horse sports:
  - WHS
  - animal welfare, including current Prevention of Cruelty to Animals Acts
  - environmental management
  - biosecurity.

Assessment Conditions

Assessment of skills must take place under the following conditions:

- physical conditions:
  - a workplace or an environment that accurately represents workplace conditions in a real horse sport setting
- resources, equipment and materials:
  - live, compliant and manageable horses that have been assessed as suitable for the riders involved in the horse sport
  - appropriate tack for individual, horse and competition activity
  - personal protective equipment correctly fitted and appropriate for activity for riders
  - transport for horses

- technology to access, prepare and present information
- specifications:
  - sources of current information on competition rules, and current WHS, animal welfare, environmental management and biosecurity practices and regulations.

Training and assessment strategies must show evidence of the use of guidance provided in the Companion Volume: User Guide: Safety in Equine Training.

Assessors of this unit must satisfy the requirements for assessors in applicable vocational education and training legislation, frameworks and/or standards.

ACMPHR403 Evaluate equine training methodologies

Modification History

Release	Comments

Application

This unit of competency covers the skills and knowledge required to review, evaluate and select specific training methodologies or techniques to achieve stated training and performance goals within welfare, workplace and safety requirements. It involves in-depth knowledge of a range of training methodologies and techniques relevant to the discipline or sport in which the horse is to be trained.

The unit applies to individuals who have responsibility for overseeing or implementing training programs for horses to achieve identified goals and meet workplace needs in any performance or leisure horse discipline. It covers a range of work environments, including stables, paddocks, yards, exercise arenas and public areas; and is relevant to a wide range of horse breeds, ages and uses, including high performance, young, breeding, pleasure horses and retired horses.

No occupational licensing or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of publication.

Work health and safety and animal welfare legislation relevant to interacting with horses applies to workers in this industry. Requirements vary between industry sectors and state/territory jurisdictions. Users are advised to check with the relevant authority for specific requirements.

NOTE: The terms 'occupational health and safety' (OHS) and 'work health and safety' (WHS) generally have the same meaning in the workplace. In jurisdictions where the national model WHS legislation has not been implemented, RTOs must contextualise the unit of competency by referring to current OHS legislative requirements.

Release	Comments

Performance Evidence

An individual demonstrating competency must satisfy all of the elements and performance criteria of this unit.

There must be evidence that the individual has researched, selected, implemented and evaluated at least two training programs for different performance horses, including:

- researching current information relevant to equine training methodologies, equine cognition, ethology, behaviour and learning
- accurately interpreting equine behaviour, including body language, vocalisation, locomotory behaviour and interactions with other horses
- assessing the current state of education and physical readiness of horses to undergo training
- identifying the current horse-related skills and knowledge of clients or riders
- determining the training program goals
- evaluating possible training methodologies and outcomes against knowledge of:
  - current practices in safe horse handling and training
  - equine behaviour, health and welfare
  - equine anatomy, physiology and biomechanics
  - horse learning theory principles and ethology
- selecting training program to meet identified goals as well as horse and workplace needs
- determining resource requirements to meet training program goals
- overseeing delivery of the training program
- evaluating horse responses to, and outcomes of, training program.

Knowledge Evidence

An individual must be able to demonstrate the knowledge required to perform the tasks outlined in the elements and performance criteria of this unit. This includes knowledge of:

- equine anatomy, physiology and biomechanics
- equine behaviour, including body language, vocalisations, locomotory behaviour

- equine cognition and ethology
- learning theory principles and implementation
- equine health and welfare
- training methodologies, including underpinning assumptions, evidence base, credibility, effectiveness and humaneness
- skills required of riders, drivers or handlers to safely interact with their horse to meet identified goals
- techniques for assessing:
  - horse suitability for riders, drivers or handlers
  - hazards and risks associated with training programs
- equipment, tack and resource requirements
- current research in equine training, cognition, learning and behaviour
- industry specialists relevant to the sport or discipline
- key requirements of standards, policies and procedures and legislation for:
  - work health and safety
  - animal welfare, including current Prevention of Cruelty to Animals legislation.

Assessment Conditions

Assessment of skills must take place under the following conditions:

- physical conditions:
  - a workplace or an environment that accurately represents workplace conditions
- resources, equipment and materials:
  - live horses to use for observation of behaviour and to determine the training they need
  - technology to access information, and/or sources of current information on training methodologies
- specifications:
  - guidelines for preparing training plans and assessing risk and horse suitability.

Training and assessment strategies must show evidence of the use of guidance provided in the Companion Volume: User Guide: Safety in Equine Training.

Assessors of this unit must satisfy the requirements for assessors in applicable vocational education and training legislation, frameworks and/or standards.

Assessment Requirements for ACMPHR407 Implement an equine facility maintenance, improvement and management program

Modification History

Release	Comments

Performance Evidence

An individual demonstrating competency in this unit must satisfy all of the elements and performance criteria of this unit.

There must be evidence that the individual has implemented at least one equine facility maintenance, improvement and management program, including:

- conducting an audit of the condition and suitability of property resources to identify and prioritise safety issues and resources requiring upgrading, renewal or construction
- researching planning, legal and government regulations relevant to maintaining or modifying the use of infrastructure on the property
- analysing efficiency, effectiveness and cost benefits of resources and labour
- developing a costed property improvement and maintenance plan and schedule, considering financial, labour, ongoing maintenance, legal and environmental requirements to meet operational needs and business goals
- developing an inventory of property, machinery, equipment and tack and feed resources and associated recordkeeping procedures
- supervising and training staff in maintenance activities and safe work practices
- supervising the activities of contractors and suppliers
- adhering to regulatory and workplace procedures and practices relevant to role and property management activities for:
  - animal welfare
  - work health and safety (WHS)
  - biosecurity
  - environment and sustainability.

Knowledge Evidence

An individual must be able to demonstrate the knowledge required to perform the tasks outlined in the elements and performance criteria of this unit. This includes knowledge of:

- specific infrastructure, labour, natural resources, equipment, machinery and tack required to support the operational needs and business goals of the organisation
- economic, legal and environmental parameters relevant to planning and the implementation of property improvement or maintenance activities
- recordkeeping requirements and systems
- relevant training needs, courses and qualifications required of staff
- contractor and supplier services and overview of costs
- industry standard maintenance procedures for the maintenance and service of gear, tack, plant and equipment to comply with relevant work health safety, sport and other legislative requirements
- regulations pertaining to plant, equipment and property and appropriate standards and codes regarding structures to contain horses
- key requirements of WHS regulations and guidelines relating to:
  - risk assessment, control and review
  - due diligence for staff and other personnel
  - safe horse handling techniques
  - handling, storage and disposal of chemicals
  - personal protective equipment including correct use, storage and maintenance, and replacement requirements
- key requirements of biosecurity standards, relevant to horse disease and hygiene standards
- key requirements of animal welfare standards, policies and procedures relevant to the safe, humane and ethical care and housing of horses
- key requirements of environmental and sustainability standards, policies and procedures relevant to equine facilities and properties.

Assessment Conditions

Assessment of skills must take place under the following conditions:

- physical conditions:
  - a workplace or an environment that accurately represents workplace conditions, which includes natural resources such as paddocks, native vegetation and water sources, as well as live horses, plant and machinery
- resources, equipment and materials:
  - workplace technology for accessing and preparing information
- specifications:
  - information about property facilities and resources, and costs to develop plans, schedules and budgets
- relationships (internal and/or external):
  - staff to train and other personnel to coordinate.

Training and assessment strategies must show evidence of the use of guidance provided in the Companion Volume: User Guide: Safety in Equine Training.

Assessors of this unit must satisfy the requirements for assessors in applicable vocational education and training legislation, frameworks and/or standards.

ACMPHR503 Evaluate performance horse conformation

Modification History

Release	Comments

Application

This unit of competency describes the skills and knowledge required to assess the conformation of horses for various performance horse sports. It covers the implications of conformation on performance and the development of corrective measures and action plans for young horses to minimise future problems.

The unit applies to individuals who have managerial responsibilities within performance horse training and breeding organisations for selecting horses for various performance horse sports. They work independently within organisational guidelines, applying extensive knowledge of horse conformation and industry skills to achieve outcomes.

No occupational licensing or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of publication.

Work health and safety and animal welfare legislation relevant to interacting with horses applies to workers in this industry. Requirements vary between industry sectors and state/territory jurisdictions. Users are advised to check with the relevant authority for specific requirements.

NOTE: The terms 'occupational health and safety' (OHS) and 'work health and safety' (WHS) generally have the same meaning in the workplace. In jurisdictions where the national model WHS legislation has not been implemented, RTOs must contextualise the unit of competency by referring to current OHS legislative requirements.

Performance Evidence

An individual demonstrating competency in this unit must satisfy all of the elements and performance criteria of this unit.

There must be evidence that the individual has observed, examined and evaluated the conformation of at least three horses, including at least one foal or other young horse, including:

- handling horses safely and humanely during examinations and observations
- reporting on the conformation of horses covering:
  - desirable and undesirable conformational features
  - requirements of established breed and sport standards
- developing corrective action plans to manage undesirable characteristics and rectify conformation traits of individual horses
- using health care practices, including bandaging and hoof care as part of corrective action strategies
- complying with regulatory requirements and workplace and industry procedures and practices relevant to role and evaluating performance horse conformation, including:
  - animal welfare and prevention of cruelty to animals
  - work health and safety.

Knowledge Evidence

An individual must be able to demonstrate the knowledge required to perform the tasks outlined in the elements and performance criteria of this unit. This includes knowledge of:

- techniques for analysing horse conformation
- desirable and undesirable conformation characteristics of horses
- performance horse breeds and conformation characteristics
- breed conformation standards of excellence
- industry standard conformation terminology
- performance horse sports and requirements

- normal and abnormal features of horse gaits and movement
- features of unsoundness and blemishes in horses and foals
- veterinary procedures for correcting abnormal conformation, including for young horses
- farriery procedures for correcting abnormal conformation, including for young horses
- key features of horse husbandry practices
- key requirements of work health and safety regulations and guidelines relating to:
  - risk assessment, control and review
  - safe horse handling techniques
  - personal protective equipment (PPE)
- key requirements of animal welfare standards, policies and procedures relevant to the safe, humane and ethical care of horses.

Assessment Conditions

Assessment of skills must take place under the following conditions:

- physical conditions:
  - a workplace or an environment that accurately represents workplace conditions
- resources, equipment and materials:
  - various live horses, including foals and young horses – note that young horses can be less compliant and highly reactive, and should be assessed as suitable for the experience and skill of the individual
  - materials and information about horse conformation, or technology to access the information.

Training and assessment strategies must show evidence of the use of guidance provided in the Companion Volume: User Guide: Safety in Equine Training.

Assessors of this unit must satisfy the requirements for assessors in applicable vocational education and training legislation, frameworks and/or standards.

ACMPHR505 Manage fitness in performance horses

Modification History

Release	Comments

Application

This unit of competency covers the knowledge and skills required to assess options, design strategies and manage conditioning programs for horses. It includes monitoring horse responses to conditioning and competition schedules, responding to problems, and managing spelling and return-to-work periods.

This unit applies to individuals who have management responsibilities in professional horse businesses, working independently and in conjunction with others within organisational guidelines. They have extensive knowledge of horses in a wide range of situations and may have responsibility for highly valuable animals.

No occupational licensing or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of publication.

Work health and safety and animal welfare legislation relevant to interacting with horses applies to workers in this industry. Requirements vary between industry sectors and state/territory jurisdictions. Users are advised to check with the relevant authority for specific requirements.

NOTE: The terms 'occupational health and safety' (OHS) and 'work health and safety' (WHS) generally have the same meaning in the workplace. In jurisdictions where the national model WHS legislation has not been implemented, RTOs must contextualise the unit of competency by referring to current OHS legislative requirements.

Unit Sector

Performance Horse (PHR)

Elements and Performance Criteria

Elements	Performance Criteria
Elements describe the essential outcomes.	Performance criteria describe the performance needed to demonstrate achievement of the element.
1. Assess the physiological and structural adaptations of the musculoskeletal system of horses to conditioning	1.1 Identify the anatomical and physiological effect of conditioning regimes on adaptations in major body systems of horses 1.2 Assess structural differences in physical appearance and muscling between conditioned and unconditioned horses 1.3 Determine strategies and techniques to use for conditioning horses
2. Assess changes to the cardiovascular and respiratory systems in response to conditioning	2.1 Arrange for blood tests to be taken and analysed for indicators of fitness and response to training, in consultation with veterinary experts 2.2 Use heart rate monitors or stethoscopes, using safe horse handling techniques, to evaluate horse fitness and response to training 2.3 Monitor and record heart rate pre- and post-exercise to determine the impact of exercise and competition, and to track changes in fitness 2.4 Measure and record respiratory rates following exercise to evaluate the impact of exercise and track changes in fitness 2.5 Investigate training and conditioning techniques to improve lung function and gas exchange efficiency, and apply where appropriate
3. Monitor and evaluate physiological outcomes of conditioning and exercise programs	3.1 Determine and document conditioning and fitness goals 3.2 Monitor and adapt program on a regular basis to ensure short- and long-term goals are achieved 3.3 Develop and implement a training and conditioning program to achieve required physiological adaptations 3.4 Identify and manage exercise-related illness and injury
4. Evaluate contribution of feed sources on energy production in exercising horses	4.1 Evaluate nutrient sources for their potential contribution to the energy needs of the horse relative to exercise regime, intensity and duration 4.2 Evaluate nutritional supplements suitable for inclusion in the diet of horses undergoing a fitness program
5. Manage fatigue in horses	5.1 Identify causes of fatigue in exercising horses and develop measures to prevent or manage fatigue during training and competition 5.2 Identify the signs and effects of fatigue, and develop measures to minimise harm to the horse

Elements	Performance Criteria
Elements describe the essential outcomes.	Performance criteria describe the performance needed to demonstrate achievement of the element.
6. Monitor and manage thermoregulation efficiency in exercising horses	6.1 Develop and implement strategies to prevent over-heating during the training and competition schedule 6.2 Identify the signs of over-heating in horses and take appropriate and rapid measures to provide relief 6.3 Ensure that horses are kept appropriately hydrated during exercise, travel and competition 6.4 Identify the signs of dehydration in horses and take appropriate and rapid measures to provide relief
7. Manage spelling and resumption of work in performance horses	7.1 Incorporate planned periods of rest into the design of training and competition schedules 7.2 Arrange rest or spelling periods to minimise loss of fitness 7.3 Develop and implement strategies to manage the transition from work to spelling 7.4 Monitor the health and welfare of horses being spelled

Assessment Requirements for ACMPHR505 Manage fitness in performance horses

Modification History

Release	Comments

Performance Evidence

An individual demonstrating competency in this unit must satisfy all of the elements and performance criteria of this unit.

There must be evidence that the individual has managed the fitness and conditioning programs for a workplace, including at least two horses requiring different conditioning requirements, including:

- handling horses safely and fitting appropriate equipment and tack, including heart rate monitors or stethoscopes
- developing and adapting a sequential conditioning program to achieve nominated exercise or competition goals for the horse
- taking and recording vital signs and other relevant health and welfare indicators
- measuring and evaluating the physical condition of the horse to assess adaptation to conditioning program
- administering medications and nutraceuticals including but not limited to oral electrolyte drenches
- recording, monitoring, and managing health issues related to exercise, including soft tissue injuries, fatigue, overheating, dehydration
- complying with regulatory requirements and workplace and industry procedures and practices relevant to role and managing fitness in performance horses, including:
  - animal welfare and prevention of cruelty to animals
  - work health and safety.

Knowledge Evidence

An individual must be able to demonstrate the knowledge required to perform the tasks outlined in the elements and performance criteria of this unit. This includes knowledge of:

- key features of anatomy and physiology of horse body systems
- key features of exercise physiology, including adaptations of horse body systems to exercise
- equine body condition scoring systems

- basic principles of chemistry relating to performance fitness
- basic principles of biology relating to performance fitness
- normal and abnormal blood test parameters relevant to exercise
- equipment relevant for implementing a conditioning program, including:
  - heart rate monitors
  - tack and protective equipment
- performance horse conditioning techniques and methods
- common horse health problems and injuries related to exercise
- risk factors for the development of exercise-related injuries and disease
- features of thermoregulation
- feed, supplements and nutraceuticals relevant to maintaining the health and welfare of exercising horses
- sites and mechanisms of feed digestion
- key requirements of work health and safety regulations and guidelines relating to:
  - risk assessment, control and review
  - safe horse handling techniques
  - personal protective equipment
- key requirements of animal welfare standards, policies and procedures relevant to the safe, humane and ethical care of horses.

Assessment Conditions

Assessment of skills must take place under the following conditions:

- physical conditions:
  - a workplace or an environment that accurately represents workplace conditions
- resources, equipment and materials:
  - various live horses assessed as suitable for the experience and skill of the individual
  - materials and information about horse conditioning programs, or technology to access the information
  - appropriate tack for individual, horse and conditioning activity
  - personal protective equipment (PPE) correctly fitted and applicable to activity for the individual

Training and assessment strategies must show evidence of the use of guidance provided in the Companion Volume: User Guide: Safety in Equine Training.

Assessors of this unit must satisfy the requirements for assessors in applicable vocational education and training legislation, frameworks and/or standards.

Required Skills and Knowledge

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- set realistic goals
- operate manual and/or electronic commercial systems
- consider and evaluate alternatives
- develop and manage supply chains
- design performance criteria, and operational and tactical plans that are incorporated into a business plan
- analyse information and results
- identify and design risk management and mitigation strategies
- identify and design appropriate operational plans
- use literacy skills to fulfil job roles as required by the organisation. The level of skill may range from reading and understanding documentation to completion of written reports
- use oral communication skills/language competence to fulfil the job role as specified by the organisation including questioning, active listening, asking for clarification, negotiating solutions and responding to a range of views
- use numeracy skills to estimate, calculate and record complex workplace measures
- use interpersonal skills to work with others and relate to people from a range of cultural, social and religious backgrounds and with a range of physical and mental abilities.

Required knowledge
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• budgeting</li> <li>• forecasting</li> <li>• relevant industrial awards and agreements</li> <li>• communication techniques</li> <li>• risk management factors and priorities</li> <li>• indicators of operational performance</li> <li>• the fiscal and operational systems, and the resource considerations, that are relevant to business planning</li> <li>• logical and analytic methods</li> <li>• profit and loss and cash flow systems</li> <li>• working knowledge of environmental, OHS, industrial relations, taxation, corporate and industry legislation as they relate to the enterprise</li> <li>• capital investment analysis.</li> </ul>

Evidence Guide

EVIDENCE GUIDE
The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.
Overview of assessment
Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit	Competence in developing and reviewing a business plan requires evidence that demonstrates ability to scope the business plan and determine key objectives and targets. The evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit must be relevant to workplace operations and satisfy holistically all of the requirements of the performance criteria and required skills and knowledge and include achievement of the following: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• set strategic goals, targets and directions for the enterprise</li> <li>• determine clear and measurable indicators of operational performance</li> <li>• identify and design risk management and mitigation</li> </ul>

Assessment Requirements for BSBADM307 Organise schedules

Modification History

Release	Comments
Release 1	This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package Version 1.0.

Performance Evidence

Evidence of the ability to:

- appropriately manage the schedules of various individuals through a process of careful planning and negotiation.

Note: If a specific volume or frequency is not stated, then evidence must be provided at least once.

Knowledge Evidence

To complete the unit requirements safely and effectively, the individual must:

- identify the key provisions of relevant legislation, standards and codes that affect aspects of business operations or the achievement of team goals
- describe organisational requirements for managing appointments for personnel within the organisation
- summarise the range of appointment systems that could be used
- outline important considerations when managing the schedules of others.

Assessment Conditions

Assessment must be conducted in a safe environment where evidence gathered demonstrates consistent performance of typical activities experienced in the general administration field of work and include access to:

- office equipment and resources
- a range of diaries, planners and calendars to record and schedule appointments.

Assessors must satisfy NVR/AQTF assessor requirements.

Assessment Requirements for BSBWHS303 Participate in WHS hazard identification, risk assessment and risk control

Modification History

Release	Comments
Release 1	This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package Version 1.0.

Performance Evidence

Evidence of the ability to:

- participate in selection and use of required methods to identify, report and record hazards
- assess and record risks for identified hazards
- promote and support worker consultation and participation in hazard identification and risk assessment
- participate in developing, selecting and implementing risk control options and plans.

Note: If a specific volume or frequency is not stated, then evidence must be provided at least once.

Knowledge Evidence

To complete the unit requirements safely and effectively, the individual must:

- outline the relevant Commonwealth and state or territory Acts, regulations, codes of practice standards, guidance material and other relevant publications
- summarise work health and safety (WHS) legislative requirements about:
  - communication, consultation and participation
  - notification of incidents
  - recordkeeping
  - specific hazard identification and risk assessment and control methods
- list the basic principles of incident causation and injury processes
- explain the concept of hazards, risks and risk factors
- describe hazard identification and risk assessment methods
- identify internal and external sources of WHS information and data, and how to access them
- summarise organisational WHS policies, procedures, processes and systems

- describe the range of WHS hazards that may be present in the workplace, the harm they can cause and how this harm occurs
- describe risk control options for different hazards and work situations
- identify types of hazard and risk registers
- describe the workplace communication processes for sharing information about hazard identification, and risk assessment and control.

Assessment Conditions

Assessment must be conducted in a safe environment where evidence gathered demonstrates consistent performance of typical activities experienced by individuals carrying out work health and safety duties in the workplace and include access to:

- organisational policies, standard operating procedures and plans
- Acts, regulations, codes of practice, licensing requirements and standards
- relevant data files
- appropriate resources to manage the identification and rectification of breaches in compliance requirements.

Assessors must satisfy NVR/AQTF assessor requirements.

BSBWHS332X Apply infection prevention and control procedures to own work activities

Modification History

Release	Comments
Release 1	This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package Version 6.1.

Application

This unit describes the skills and knowledge required to undertake work activities in compliance with organisational procedures that prevent and control infection. It involves implementing standard and transmission-based precautions, identifying infection hazards, and assessing and responding to infection risks.

The unit applies to all workers required to undertake their activities in compliance with the infection prevention and control procedures in place in their workplace.

The skills in this unit must be applied in accordance with Commonwealth and State/Territory legislation, Australian/New Zealand standards and industry codes of practice.

Unit Sector

Cross-Sector – Infection Prevention and Control

Elements and Performance Criteria

ELEMENT	PERFORMANCE CRITERIA
Elements describe the essential outcomes.	Performance criteria describe the performance needed to demonstrate achievement of the element.
1. Prepare to undertake work activities in a manner that supports infection prevention and control	1.1 Identify job requirements 1.2 Identify organisational infection prevention and control procedures relating to identified job requirements 1.3 Identify infection hazards associated with work activities and environment and assess the risk

	according to organisational procedures 1.4 Identify and implement infection prevention and control measures relating to identified hazards within scope of own role and responsibilities and according to organisational procedures
2. Undertake work activities in a manner that supports infection prevention and control	2.1 Use resources and equipment according to organisational infection prevention and control procedures and manufacturer specifications 2.2 Clean and maintain own work area according to organisational infection prevention and control procedures 2.3 Respond to infection prevention and control hazards and non-compliance arising in the course of activities, within scope of own role or escalate to required personnel 2.4 Respond to exposure to infection of self or others according to organisational procedures and within required timeframes
3. Finalise work activities according to organisational infection prevention and control requirements	3.1 Maintain and store resources and equipment used in the course of own activities according to organisational infection prevention and control procedures and manufacturer specifications 3.2 Dispose of waste and confine contaminated resources or equipment according to organisational infection prevention and control procedures 3.3 Complete incident reports and convey to required personnel according to organisational procedures

Foundation Skills

This section describes those language, literacy, numeracy and employment skills that are essential to performance but not explicit in the performance criteria.

Assessment Requirements for BSBWHS332X Apply infection prevention and control procedures to own work activities

Modification History

Release	Comments
Release 1	This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package Version 6.1.

Performance Evidence

The candidate must demonstrate the ability to complete the tasks outlined in the elements, performance criteria and foundation skills of this unit, including evidence of the ability to:

- apply organisational infection prevention and control procedures to own work activities on at least three different occasions
- identify at least two different infection hazards, assess the risk they pose, and respond to each within scope of own role and responsibilities and according to organisational infection prevention and control procedures.

In the course of the above, the candidate must:

- demonstrate the use of required precautions and control measures, as required for own work activities
- confine at least one resource or piece of equipment that is suspected of being contaminated, according to organisational infection prevention and control procedures
- dispose of waste according to organisational infection prevention and control procedures.

Knowledge Evidence

The candidate must be able to demonstrate knowledge to complete the tasks outlined in the elements, performance criteria and foundation skills of this unit, including knowledge of:

- nature and types of infection-related hazards in own work environment
- chain of infection:
  - source of infectious agent
  - mode of transmission
  - susceptible host and factors that increase susceptibility
- key modes of disease transmission – contact, airborne and droplet:
  - paths of transmission, including direct contact, aerosols and penetrating injuries

- risk of acquisition
- sources of infecting microorganisms, including persons who are carriers, in the incubation phase of the disease or those who are acutely ill
- precautions and control measures for infection hazards associated with own role and work activities, including standard and transmission-based precautions:
  - required personal health and hygiene, including:
    - checking and reporting indicators of own ill health
    - respiratory hygiene and cough etiquette
    - hand hygiene: procedures for hand washing and hand rubbing; and situations requiring the use of soap and water or alcohol-based hand rub
    - guidelines on maintaining fingernails and intact skin
    - guidelines on wearing jewellery and watches
    - social distancing measures
  - organisational procedures relating to own role and work activities, including for:
    - identifying hazards associated with own work activities and workplace environment, including infection-related hazards
    - assessing risks associated with identified hazards, including determining the likelihood and severity of harm
    - reporting hazards that put self and others at risk, including infection hazards
    - identifying, sourcing and checking the serviceability of PPE required in own role and work activities:
      - eye protection: protective glasses or goggles
      - gloves
      - masks or face shields
      - protective clothing and footwear
    - completing incident reports
- organisational infection prevention and control procedures relating to own role, work activities and physical environment, including for:
  - escalating hazard prevention and control matters outside scope of own role
  - handling, transporting, reprocessing or processing resources and equipment used in the course of own work activities in a manner that:
    - prevents skin and mucous membrane exposure, contamination and transfer of pathogens
    - limits contamination of resources and equipment
    - controls the spread of infection
  - handling and disposing of waste relating to own work activities, including contaminated waste
  - environmental cleaning of own work area, including cleaning and disinfecting surfaces: procedures and specified schedules
  - confining contaminated resources and equipment to designated areas
  - confining workplace records and materials to clean areas
  - responding to exposure to infection of self or others, including to body fluids

- infection prevention and control protocols required by own work activities:
  - placing appropriate signs when and where appropriate
  - removing spills
  - separating and maintaining clean and contaminated areas
- manufacturer specifications relating to resources and equipment used and maintained in the course of own work activities.

Assessment Conditions

Skills in this unit must be demonstrated in a workplace or simulated environment where the conditions are typical of those in a working environment in this industry.

This includes access to:

- suitable facilities, equipment and resources, including:
  - organisational infection prevention and control procedures and guidelines
  - PPE suited to work role and job requirements
  - hygiene facilities and equipment relevant to workplace
  - waste disposal equipment suited to waste generated during work activities
  - areas for cleaning.

Assessors of this unit must satisfy the requirements for assessors in applicable vocational education and training legislation, frameworks and/or standards.
